STOCK LIST UNSETTLED; UTILITIES UP

S. Steel, Chrysler and Numerous Other Important Issues Encounter Selling.

CALL MONEY RENEWED AT 7, THEN ADVANCED

North American Company and American T. & T. Reach New Peaks in Day's Upward Range.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The stock market was extremely unsettled today as call money rose to 8 percent for the first time since the middle of the month. A score of important issues lost about 2 to 6 points, but strong buying continued in the utilities, lifting several to new high levels.

The average of utility shares recorded advance of 5.5 points and rails 9 of a point while the average of 50 industrials declined .5 point.

Call money renewed at 7 and was lifted to 8 in the early afternoon. Calling of loans was slight.

Replacement funds were scarce. The peak of the month-end money market is not expected until tomorrow, and although the banks are fairly good positions at the Federal Reserve Bank they appeared reluctant to increase their borrowings to support the market. Fears of 10 per cent money tomorrow became pronounced.

Unsettling factors were selling of U. S. Steel, which added 3 points, by holders who were disappointed that no extra dividend was declared yesterday.

Unsettling over the possibility of an increase in the bank of England's discount rate to stop the flow of gold to New York.

News Largely Favorable.

The day's business news was largely favorable, but failed to strengthen the market. "Iron Trade Review" described the month as undoubtedly the best January in the history of the iron and steel industry from the standpoint of production.

"Iron Age" was more conservative, saying that expanding demands for railroad, automobile and structural steel had strengthened the industry as January draws to a close. Liggett & Myers declared an extra dividend of $1 on the common and 5 stocks.

North American Co. and American Telephone rose 3 and 5 points respectively to new peaks, but irregularly dropped out in the utility division, as some commission houses warned their customers that the advance in this group seemed to be proceeding at a rather too rapid pace.

Consolidated Gas and Western Union lost two and three points. At the close consolidated was 1/2 net up.

International silver mounted 13 points and Jewel Tone, Montgomery Ward, Burroughs, Warner Brothers and Commercial Solvent rose 5 points.

Liggett & Myers rose nearly 7 points, and Seaboard rose 5, while Indian Refining, Canadian Pacific, National Bellas Electric, Electric Auto Line, International Harvester, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Electric, Canadian Pacific and Johns Manville were among issues receding.

The finish, however, saw Commercial Solvents 1/2-point net down and Liggett & Myers 1 point net.

Utilities Bought.

Unusual buying of utilities continued during the last hour, American Power and Light crossing 68 and 120 to new peaks.

Pacific Lighting jumped 8 points. General Electric climbed 13 1/4 points to a new top above 260 and Westinghouse Electric mounted to a new record price at 161 1/2.

U. S. Steel, Chrysler and numerous other important issues, however, encountered steady selling pressure. The market opened rather buoyant today, with utilities again in the lead.

A block of 15,000 shares of Utilities Power & Light was taken at 45 1/2, and two lots to a new high, and American & Foreign Power and American Power & Light each rose a point.

Brooklyn Manhattan Transit moved up 1 point, United Fruit 2 1/2, Commercial Investment Trust and Rio

PRINCE OF WALES LOOKS UPON MISERY IN HOMES OF UNEMPLOYED MINERS

Although Ill, He Refused to Abandon Tour — Many Families Forced to Exist on $4 a Week.

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Edward, Prince of Wales, yesterday looked upon scenes of suffering where half a million sturdy English miners and their families are kept alive only by charity and tiny Government doles.

Although ill himself and advised by doctors to go to bed, the Prince refused to abandon his tour of the Durham mining field, undertaken because he wanted to see for himself the tragedy which holds in its grip the northern part of England.

Through the doorways of two cottages in the area, which he held to the throne visited, death had passed before he knocked at them.

One of these was the home of Frank McKay, 70-year-old miners' leader, himself a sack weaver, when there was work, who recently publicly challenged the Prince to come to the village of Winton and gaze upon the misery.

The Prince walked up to the door of the humble cottage unannounced. Bareheaded, he knocked for permission to enter.

As the Prince walked into the sparsely furnished living room he was met by a weeping girl, McKay's daughter. The four sons of the house and McKay himself were out. The body of her dead mother lay in a coffin in the room above and her father was at the undertaker's making arrangements for the funeral.

Placing a hand on the girl's shoulder, the Prince spoke words of comfort he could find and remained in the cottage 10 minutes, trying to express his sympathy.

The second home into which death preceded the Prince was at Newfield, near Pelton. When he entered the home of a miner named Stoves, he learned that one of the man's two children had died Saturday. The funeral was not to take place until tomorrow because the parents had been unable to raise money enough to pay for it.

In his tour of the half a dozen towns and villages, made wretched by prolonged unemployment, the Prince passed many closed mines, many of which may never be worked again, and rows upon rows of shops whose owners have been ruined by the poverty of their customers.

He saw the tragedy of the English coal fields in all its stark misery, penniless families struggling to exist on $4 or $5 a week.

In silence, the Prince walked past groups of women and children, covering against the cold in shawls and makeshift clothing. He seldom saw a miner wearing an overcoat, although the cold had forced him to don two himself to make the tour. The miners' coats, the Prince was told, had long since been sold to buy bread.

Penniless Except for Dole.

In one home the Prince found a woman, penniless except for the dole, living in three squalid rooms with five children, the youngest of them four months old and the eldest 10 years. The father of the children, a miner with 10 years' experience, has been without work for more than a year.

The only time the Prince used the automobile in which he set out from Newcastle-on-Tyne to make his circuit of the district was to get from one town to another.

Soon after he left Winton a motor car overtook the Prince's machine.

A half-haired miner stepped out. It was Frank McKay, who, learning of the Prince's visit to his home, had left his wife's bier and motored seven miles in a borrowed car to thank the heir to the throne for his personal expression of sympathy.

At Bedside of Woman.

In the next town he visited he stood at the bedside of Mrs. Charles Cameron, who gave birth to her eighth child Saturday and whose husband had been workless for three years.

His cautious and anger that such conditions could exist.

"How do you live?" he asked the husband.

"I get 10 shillings ($2.40), a week from the Poor Law Guardians and 18 shillings (about $4.50) in vouchers for food," was the answer.

The Prince's visit to the mining regions brought many expressions of gratitude for his interest from the miners during the course of the day. In one village a "gray-faced man" was heard to comment:

"Aye, aye, the dear lad's a champion," and "God bless you," followed him wherever he stopped to shake hands with a miner or any of the womenfolk.

The Prince came up to Newcastle from London on the night train Monday night so as to get an early start on his tour.

He returned to Newcastle last night.

FINDS HER MISSING DIAMOND RING ON BITING SANDWICH

East St. Louis Woman Almost Swallows $250 Jewel in Hamburger.

Miss Stella M. Martin, proprietor of a sandwich shop at 621 North Fifty-ninth street, East St. Louis, lost a $250 diamond ring last Thursday. She reported the loss to police and went on with her work.

The next day at lunch she bit into a hamburger sandwich and almost swallowed the ring. It had slipped from her finger into the meat while she was preparing the sandwich filling the day before.

BREAKUP OF ICE IMPERILS BYRD'S MEN AND SHIPS

For Two Hours 40 Risk Lives to Save Supplies Unloaded on Barrier That Crumbles.

100-TON CAKES MENACE VESSELS

Byrd's Quick Thinking in Unloosening Hawser Lines Prevents Craft From Being Crushed.

By RUSSELL OWEN.

(Copyright, 1929, by the Post-Dispatch and New York Times. World Rights Reserved.)

This story is published exclusively in St. Louis in the Post-Dispatch. All news articles from members of the Byrd party or from special correspondents assigned to it will appear in the Post-Dispatch in this city.

BAY OF WHALES, Antarctica, Jan. 29.—(By Wireless.)—The Antarctic played another of its little tricks today and for two hours of breaking, heaving cakes of ice, men showed a reckless courage which alone saved a desperate situation. Our dock, Pier One, to which we were tied so neatly yesterday, broke up under a heavy swell and with portions of the barrier crumbling off ahead, huge cakes buckling and heaving against the ships and between us and the barrier cakes on which precious airplane parts were resting. 40 men worked like Trojans and risked their lives to get everything on board again. They succeeded and by a miracle no man or important article was lost.

The thing occurred with startling suddenness. We all had been doing swift and efficient work a moment before on what apparently was a solid pile of snow 20 feet thick, and even deeper. Where it led up the slope to the barrier, everything began to disintegrate under our feet. It broke all at once, a swift settling and heaving as if an earthquake were taking place. Slowly but with ominous power these huge blocks up-ended and for a time threatened to overturn and possibly crush the Eleanor Bolling, which was lying next to them.

If one had turned over cakes 100 feet long, as it seemed for a time they could do, it might easily have punched a hole in the Eleanor Bolling and sunk it.

Byrd's Quick Thinking.

That they did not was due to the quick thinking of Commander Byrd, who had the hawsers holding the ship to the barrier ice over the dock eased off, which relieved the pressure and permitted the cakes to settle again. Something very serious might have happened.

As it is, we are now safe and the ships are moving out until the broken dock drifts out and we can go back alongside the low part of the barrier and resume unloading. Even that place will be watched carefully, for ice has a way of doing things rapidly and with crushing power. We have learned to respect its treachery even though the work must go on over it.

Men Work in Blizzard.

Last night when men were working on the dock and hauling things up the slope to the barrier a blizzard came up from the northwest. It blew hard and the thick, heavy snow obscured the entire bay so that it was impossible to see more than a few feet. It caked the clothes of the crew hauling at crates and getting stuff over side and the cold wind froze it to them so that they were encased in crackling armor. Their faces were nipped and they tucked their heads in and turned to give themselves some protection.

In the thick smother of snow they could hear the sighing and moaning of ice under the pressure of wind along the barrier, a sound like the wind blowing through the trees of a mountain slope and an occasional distant rumble which was caused by a detached piece of the barrier to the north breaking away. The men halted their work for a moment to listen and then decided to get a few heavy engine boxes off the hill to the barrier. They had wanted to uncrate them and lift them out with a boom so they could be placed on sleds safely alongside the ship but the threat of the ice made necessary a change of plans. So everything was rushed with the aid of the winch and this morning when the day crew turned out, and the others went in for breakfast and bed, the dock was clear.

Weather Again Warm.

The weather has become warm.

DEATH WATCH PUT ON SLAYERS AFTER NEW APPEALS FAIL

Three Deputies Guard Leonard Yeager and Thomas Lowry, Sentenced to Be Hanged Friday Morning.

PLEAS BY LAWYER AND PASTOR DENIED

"Public Should Have Some Protection," Gov. Caulfield Says — Condemned Men Still Hopeful.

Following Gov. Caulfield's refusal again yesterday to grant reprieves or commutations of sentence, the death watch for Leonard R. Yeager, who killed an elderly tailor in a holdup, and Thomas E. Lowry, who killed a policeman, began today, at the City Jail, where the two young men are to be hanged Friday.

"I think the public should have some protection from gangsters and killers," was the Governor's comment on his refusal of clemency.

Gov. Caulfield considered and denied two applications yesterday. One submitted by Rowland L. Johnston of Kolia, a former Assistant Circuit Attorney here, sought a reprieve for Lowry in order that additional arguments for commutation might be obtained. The Governor had previously refused to act on a detailed brief submitted for Lowry.

Plea by Chaplain Fails.

The other plea, for Yeager, was made by Father John A. de Villias, jail chaplain, who went to Jefferson City to submit his arguments verbally. The Governor said the matter submitted by the priest was not direct evidence and did not alter the showing made in the case. Father de Villias declined to discuss the information he had presented to the Governor.

In discussing the cases, Gov. Caulfield said he did not feel he should interfere unless there was a showing of a miscarriage of justice.

"I have no disposition to be hard in these cases," he said, "but what has been presented has not convinced me that I should interfere with the courts."

Condemned Men Still Hopeful.

Despite the Governor's action and the approaching hour of their scheduled execution, Yeager and Lowry were still hopeful that a last-minute reprieve would be forthcoming. Their manner of life under the death watch virtually is the same as it has been for the last two weeks, except that three deputies now watch over them constantly instead of one.

Both men were sleeping soundly when the death watch began at 6 a. m. They awoke an hour later, ate a light breakfast and seemed in good spirits. At 10 o'clock Sheriff Strodtman called and found Yeager reading a catechism and Lowry at a table writing a last appeal to Gov. Caulfield.

Lowry consulted his guards occasionally for the spelling of a word, asking among his questions, "Is the barrel of a gun spelled like an ordinary barrel?"

Choice of Food Offered.

Strodtman ascertained that the condemned men were satisfied with their meals and assured them that any particular delicacies they might desire would be obtained or them. They were told that they could receive their mothers and other relatives, and each man named a young woman he desired to see. The requests were granted.

The death watch will continue for 48 hours and, according to present plans, the double execution will take place on the sixth floor of the jail as soon after 6 a. m. Friday as possible. Meanwhile the prisoners have the freedom of the entire jail tier, No. 1 on the second floor, from which other prisoners have been removed.

Yeager, who has a Protestant clergyman as spiritual adviser, was being talked at length with Catholic priests who visit the jail daily, and received his catechism from them.

Mothers There an Hour.

The mothers of the two men, Mrs. Mary Yeager of Cism, Ill., and Mrs. Mary Lowry, spent an hour in the tier yesterday. Under the mistaken impression that they would not be admitted again, the women became hysterical and had to be torn forcibly from their sons by relatives and friends when the visiting time expired.

Chief Clerk will attend the hanging of Lowry. When Sheriff Strodtman invited the Police Department to have a representative, Chief Clerk offered the assignment to several of his assistants, but they declined in his favor.

Remarkable Battle Against Death Waged to Save Seven-Year-Old Girl

MARGARET BROWN, 7-year-old school girl of Perry, Kan., today was still cheating death when she entered upon her twelfth day of life, via oxygen. Administration of oxygen ended for a time at least last night, when her lungs were drained of fluid resulting from a complication following pneumonia. Her physicians, according to dispatches from Perry today, described her condition as a great deal better.

The child's lungs have been in such a condition since Jan. 18 that two firemen from the Topeka, Kan., fire department have been relieving each other in 12-hour shifts to administer oxygen to her. Her condition does not permit her to breathe naturally. She has been conscious most of the time.

Intervention by Gov. Caulfield in the near future in an attempt to iron out the differences to the end that his inaugural address recommendation for an early completion of the system would not be surprising. The Governor is known to be intensely interested in the road building program, and it is thought at the Capitol that he will not hesitate to summon legislative leaders to a conference and explain his views. It is considered likely that he will follow that course rather than send a special message to the Legislature.

Twenty-five house members, 22 of them members of the Committee on Roads, are responsible for the confusion into which the road program has been thrown. The others are the Republican floor leader, Representative Freeland of Tane County, who yesterday blocked an effort of the construction road forces of the House to a conference and so explain his views. It is considered likely that he will follow that course rather than send a special message to the Legislature.

No Changes in Senate.

The situation now is that the House has for consideration on the floor the modified substitute which came from the committee Monday night and the Senate has for consideration on the floor the two bills held by bond experts to be the proper legislation for carrying out the provisions of the constitutional amendment, authorizing the bond issue.

On motion of Senator Cave of Fulton, the Senate today made the road bills a special order for engagement at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Failure of either house to pass the bill of the other will mean that the question will be thrown into a conference committee, which will attempt to agree upon a bill to be reported to both houses with a recommendation for passage. The conferees will have to work out the highway road law, under which the highway construction has proceeded since 1921, was written by a conference committee and approved by both houses after many days of deadlock.

The situation of opposition to completion of the highway system before the next session of the legislature is due to a combination of members from rural counties, most of which contribute an infinitesimal sum toward road construction, but which are insisting upon dictating the expenditure of the road fund, made up largely of money paid by automobile owners of St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Joplin and the other larger towns, in automobile license fees and in gasoline tax.

Every county represented by this obstructionist members, except Jackson County, one of whose representatives joined the combination, receives in road construction under the present law many times the amount which it pays toward the building of roads.

Issue Clearly Drawn.

Shannon County, home of Representative Bailey, a leader in the combine, pays approximately $22,000 a year in license fees and gasoline tax. At that rate, it would take the county 30 years to pay in as much money as the roads now designated for the county would cost. Dent County, the home of Representative Elmer, pays approximately $27,000 a year in the two taxes. It would take the county 34 years to pay in an amount equal to the cost of the roads now designated for it.

The issue is clearly drawn. The

25 COUNTRY LEGISLATORS BLOCK STATE ROAD PLANS

Gov. Caulfield Likely to Intervene in Muddle in Order to aWrd Off Danger to Program.

SENATE COMMITTEE FOR BILLS AS DRAWN

House Group Favoring Farm Routes First Represents Districts That Bear Small Part of Cost.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 30.—Action by the Senate Committee on Roads and Highways late yesterday has made a clear-cut issue between the Senate and House on the State road building program, the Senate supporting immediate completion of the State-wide highway system, and the House standing for diversion of the bond issue funds to the construction of neighborhood roads in preference to completion of the State system.

Caulfield in the near future in an attempt to iron out the differences to the end that his inaugural address recommendation for an early completion of the system would not be surprising. ## KIEL CRITICISES MILLER'S MOVE TO CONTROL ZOO TAX

Former Mayor in First Talk of Campaign Says It Was Attempt to Enlarge City Hall Patronage.

DOESN'T WANT TO PICK SCHOOL BOARD

Declares the Injection of Politics Into Education System "Would Be a Serious Mistake."

Former Mayor Kiel, actively taking up his campaign against Mayor Miller for the Republican mayoral nomination, yesterday discussed the latter's unsuccessful effort nearly two years ago to abolish the independent tax rates supporting the Art Museum, Public Library and Forest Park Zoo and thereby to return financial control of those institutions to City Hall. Kiel regarded this as an attempt to enlarge the patronage power.

Miller, with the sympathy of Comptroller Nolte, had sought to eliminate the separate tax rates because of the stringency of city finances, but the public was opposed against the scheme and the Supreme Court of Missouri prevented its consummation.

Kiel's remarks were made at a tea given by the Twenty-fourth Ward Women's Kiel-for-Mayor Club at 1422 McClelland avenue, the home of Mrs. Ross C. H. Haddock, whose husband has been appointed to a number of city commission commissions by the Circuit Court. Kiel told of the value to the community of the library, zoo and museum, and went on: "There was an effort to inject politics into municipal affairs. Fortunately for all of us, it failed. The Supreme Court said they were separate and distinct institutions and should be kept so. Why should we permit those institutions to go backward just so some people could control them in order to run a 'show'?" Let's not put them in a position where they can be controlled by so-called politicians."

Doesn't Want School Power.

Kiel explained that he had nothing against politicians in the better sense of the word, but he referred to the suggestion raised in the current board of Education campaign to have the Legislature provide for appointment of that board by the Mayor, and declared, "That would be a serious mistake."

"The minute you do that," he continued, "you inject politics and politics does not belong in the school board. Teachers are so far removed from municipal affairs that it would be a crime to do that. Whether the present method of selecting the board is best I cannot say, but the worst way would be to have an elective official, such as the Mayor, appoint it."

Vacancies on the board are filled by the Mayor. Kiel recalled that his selections to fill vacancies were satisfactory, including Mrs. Elias Michael and W. Frank Carter, although "there were many appeals to me to make appointments of a political nature."

"The people are getting away from the old idea of 'once a Republican always a Republican and once a Democrat always a Democrat,' Kiel said, explaining that voters have the opportunity to pick the man best fitted for office and to exercise the recall if dissatisfied. The recall, while hard to invoke, hangs over an official's head, he added, and it had been tried on him and on Mayor Miller but not carried through."

Controversy in 24th Ward. This was Kiel's first speech since his return from a two-week visit in New York. He considers his campaign as well under way, without the formality of an official opening such as Miller had last week. Several of the Twenty-fourth Ward residents' remarks in this big ward, containing 600 city employees, is a center of bitter contest between the Kiel and Miller factions.

Both sides are organizing there intensively. Anton P. Klein, Republican committeeman, who spoke at the tea, is for Kiel, but Mrs. Kate Kuhnert, committeewoman, is for Miller. More than 100 women crowded into the Hallock home.

Klein said the administration was "so desperate" that it sent an Alderman and the Director of Public Welfare into the ward "to get any precinct workers to come over to Miller or else." Klein called attention to the administration's failure to provide electric street lights in this and other districts.

Kiel's wife, who is making speeches in this campaign for the time and arousing interest by her confident manner, assured the gathering that she was not jealous in spite of the wide admiration of her husband. The Rev. Clarence Gardner, pastor of St. Mark's English Lutheran Church, said Kiel's official actions had recommended him to the people. Mrs. V. R. Mechin praised Kiel as a humanitarian and Mrs. Charles M. Mecht declared that Miller had not kept faith with the women in his promises of efficient government. She attacked him for the $1,000,000 increase of the new courthouse. Mrs. R. L. Saylor, president of the ward club, presided.

MISS GOWAN, who is 18 years old, has cut short her European tour to return to America to contest her mother's will, which gives her only $200,000 of a $40,000,000 estate. Her mother, the late Mrs. Margaret Huntington Smith McCarthy, left the bulk of her estate to Dr. James S. McCarthy, whose marriage to her mother Miss Gowan opposed. Mrs. McCarthy was nine years older than the doctor, who is 31, a native of New Haven, Conn., and a Yale graduate. Mrs. McCarthy's first husband, the late Albert V. Gowan of Cleveland, several years ago attained international note with a trip around the world in his steam yacht, Speejacks. His wife and daughter were on the trip with him.

tageous to attend teas. "This sort of function, now generally recognized as a political medium, is putting a new tinge on campaigning. Miller will be guest at a tea at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Twenty-fourth Ward Miller-for-Mayor Club, 4515 South Kingshighway. A tea to be addressed by Kiel and others will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow by the Second Ward Republican Club women at 1117 Salisbury street.

The Mayor and a number of his campaign aids will address a mass meeting tonight at McPherson Memorial Presbyterian Church, Good and Cote brilliant avenues, in a Negro neighborhood.

"Tub" Becker's Republican organization, supporting Miller in the Eighth Ward, will meet tonight at Golden Eagle Hall, Eleventh and Emmett streets. J. N. McKelvey, Director of Public Safety under Kiel, will preside at a Twenty-third Ward Citizens' Kiel-for-Mayor Club at 1042 North Taylor avenue tomorrow night.

Kiel was indorsed last night by the Americana Club, a city-wide organization comprising white and Negro men and women, meeting at 1042 North Taylor avenue. The Executive Committee of the Missouri Educational and Progressive Society for Colored also indorsed Kiel.

Leo B. Painter Files for Alderman in Twenty-seventh Ward. Leo B. Painter, 1442 Shawmut place, has filed for the Republican nomination for Alderman from the Twenty-seventh Ward, with the support of the Kiel faction, the ward G. O. P. Club, in which Collector of Internal Revenue Becker is a leader. Painter owns the Model Printing Co., 1608 Hodiadmont avenue. Alderman Wimer, who is friendly to Mayor Miller, will seek re-election from the Twenty-seventh.

Edward P. Schoening, a hardware merchant at 5910 Gravois avenue, has filed his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Alderman from the Thirteenth Ward, as was anticipated. He has at least four opponents, including Alderman Neu, Schoening and Miller adherents are friendly and Kiel forces have indorsed Neu.

Democratic Committeemen to Compose Aldermanic Ticket.

The Democratic City Committee, meeting yesterday, decided to have its members from the 14 odd-numbered wards, for which Aldermen are to be elected this spring, make up the aldermanic ticket within the next two weeks. This is a rather perfunctory process, since the

CONFECTIONERIES RAIDED IN POLICE LIQUOR CAMPAIGN

Owners of Three Stores Arrested on Dry Charge After Search Made on Anonymous Letters.

A number of anonymous letters telling of hiding places for liquor have been received by Chief of Police Gerk recently and yesterday he turned them over to the liquor squad for investigation.

At the confectionery of Joseph Lavia, 2131 Market street, police went into the basement, explored a hole in the wall and discovered a built-in tank containing 15 gallons of moonshine.

At the confectionery of Vincent Tallo, 721 North Leffingwell avenue, a tank of moonshine was found in the ground under the store and a keg was removed from the rock foundation of the building.

Only a key was found at the confectionery of Joseph Rossi, 511 Wash street, but the key unlocked a door in the ground under the building which held 45 pints of whisky.

Having found liquor at candy stores, police decided to try a saloon. In a compartment under the floor of Tony Landolina's place at 807 North Jefferson avenue they found 29 half pints.

The promoters of the places were arrested, although they insisted they were as much surprised as the police to find liquor on the premises.

night and plans to visit the Northumberland coal mining region today.

No Work for Four Years.

In two towns he found some miners at work and meals on the table in some homes. This was not the case, however, in the home of Taffy Lewis, who saw the splendor of the Delhi Durbar, when "a-servant of His Majesty, the King" in India. The Prince waded through mud to knock at Taffy's door. He learned that Lewis has had no work for four years and is trying to keep his wife and five children, all under 10, fed and clothed on $4 a week in relief money.

"Can't we do something for this poor fellow?" the Prince asked Curteis Bennett, Secretary of the Miners' Distress Fund. Bennett assured the Prince that shoes for the children and blankets for the beds would be supplied them.

The publicity being given the Prince's trip in the English press undoubtedly is doing much to bring home to the public the plight of some 2,000,000 miners and their dependents and will swell relief funds. Its effect upon working class sentiment is shown by sympathetic articles about the Prince in the labor press.

NEWSPAPER CHAIN INQUIRY

Senators Defer Investigation of Foreign-Controlled Group.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The proposed investigation of charges that foreign interests have been chasing control of a chain of American newspapers was discussed before the Senate Committee on Agriculture today, but action was deferred until tomorrow.

R. S. Kellogg of New York, secretary of the Newspaper Service Bureau, and Elizabeth Hanson, attorney for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, told the committee that an inquiry asked for in a resolution introduced by Senator Schall (Rep.), Minnesota, would be useless, because it would deal with "rumors and rumors."

Kellogg said he had "not been able to discover a monopoly" and that at present there was "the greatest supply of newspaper paper the country has ever seen." Hanson said his organization knew of no such foreign group buying control of American newspapers.

ADVISERS IGNORED IN AIRPORT PLAN, LAMBERT AVERS

Drainage and Lighting Features Not Referred to Technical Board by City Officials, He Asserts.

Maj. Albert Bond Lambert so far has declined to reconsider his resignation as chairman of the Technical Committee of the $2,000,000 municipal airport and has notified Director of Public Welfare Salisbury, chairman of the Airport Commission, that he does not believe his position can be changed through "talking it over," as Salisbury suggested.

Maj. Lambert resigned Monday, declaring that the city administration has neglected to employ the professional services of an airport engineer to formulate a general plan, which he considers necessary to avoid mistakes and hold the cost within the $2,000,000 authorized under the bond issue.

Replying to Salisbury's suggestion that he call at the latter's office with a view to reaching an understanding, Maj. Lambert addressed the following letter to the head of the Airport Commission last night:

"I greatly appreciate your expressed wish that I drop in for a conference with you. I am reluctant to do so in view of a possible further controversy over a situation which I deeply regret and one I feel sure can more readily adjust itself otherwise."

Maj. Lambert said today that the plans for drainage and lighting of the airport, which Salisbury announced would be presented to a general meeting of the commission tomorrow, were not presented to members of the Technical Committee for suggestions while they were being formulated.

"Drainage is one of the most important improvements in connection with the construction of an airport, but plans for the work were never presented to the Technical Committee, and if an expert in airport building was consulted in making the plans I don't know it," Maj. Lambert said.

Maj. Lambert said he had seen the plans for the proposed $100,000 lighting system, but decried the cost to be "too high." "At that rate the $2,000,000 will only pay for about half the airport," he said.

Maj. Lambert said he wrote five letters containing technical suggestions to Salisbury during his service as chairman of the Technical Committee, but says he does not know whether the advice was considered by city engineers in drawing the drainage and lighting plans.

The other members of the Technical Committee, which included, in addition to Maj. Lambert, Phil Love, Preston Sultman and B. Russell Shaw, airport designers, and Maj. C. R. Wassell, commander of the National Guard air unit, expressed regret at Maj. Lambert's resignation.

AUTOPSY ON WOMAN'S DEATH

Mrs. Mary Hayes Died of Heart Disease Not Injuries.

An autopsy today disclosed that Mrs. Mary Hayes, 61 years old, 1200 Monroe street, whose death at Jewish Hospital last night was believed to have resulted from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile on Nov. 17, died of chronic heart disease.

Mrs. Hayes suffered two fractured ribs and a broken leg when struck by a machine driven, by Louis Schwefferman, 2503 Sullivan avenue, at Thirteenth and Clayton streets. The autopsy failed to show any connection between the injuries and her death.

Kills His Wife and Then Himself.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 30.—Barrett Sharp, 41 years old, last night shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Carrie Sharp, 39, and then committed suicide in a restaurant, operated by his son, W. R. Sharp. The pair had not been living together recently.

MELLON ARGUES $24,000,000 DRY FUND IS FUTILE

Renews Attack on Extra Amount in Letter to Chairman of House Appropriations Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in a letter to Chairman Anthony of the House Appropriations Committee today reiterated his opinion that the proposed to appropriate an additional $24,000,000 to enforce prohibition would not accomplish the purpose intended.

Mellon said that under the terms of the amendment the fund would not be available for any purpose except that of increasing the personnel of the Bureau of Prohibition and the Department of Justice. It could not be used for an educational campaign, he declared, and even such essential incidental expenses as rent, office equipment, supplies and traveling expenses could not be paid from it.

"It is my understanding," Mellon wrote, "that in order to make prohibition enforcement more effective the Senate intended to provide additional funds for certain purposes, such as:

"The relief of congestion in the courts; increasing the fleet, equipment and personnel of the Coast Guard; increasing the effectiveness of the customs service, including the border patrol, and increasing the personnel of the bureau of prohibition and the Department of Justice; and that inasmuch as it was impossible definitely to allocate the sums to be spent for certain specified purposes at this time, the additional funds provided were to be allocated as the President, in his discretion, might decide."

Only One Purpose.

"I feel that it is my duty to point out to you that an examination of the amendment reveals that it will not accomplish the purposes intended. The appropriation will not be available for any of the purposes above enumerated, except increasing the personnel of the bureau of prohibition and the Department of Justice, nor will it be available for the conduct of an educational program which may have been contemplated.

"The amendment as adopted provides funds for increasing the enforcement force." Granting that the language should be construed most liberally and in the light of the desired ends which the Senate was seeking to accomplish, I feel that the appropriation would not be available for more than an increased personnel."

Guatemalan Rebel slain.

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 30.—Col. Basilio Santos, rebel leader, was shot and killed Monday morning when he attempted to evade capture in the department of Salama where he led rebel forces in the recent attempted revolution. ## NEW TEAR CANDLES AND BOMBS TESTED BY MEN IN MASKS

Police Report Them More Effective Than the Old Type Hitherto Used.

The new tear candle proved more effective and the new tear grenade was declared more practical today when police demonstrated old and new equipment in a vacant tenement at 1435 North Twenty-second street.

Lieut. Nick Bosch, drillmaster, and Capt. George Tabb of the Day-ton Street District, gave the demonstration, witnessed by the bombing squad of the Secret Service Bureau and several patrolmen. Gas masks, used by police to enter a building in which tear gas has been used, also proved efficient.

The tear candle, six inches in diameter, and three inches high, quickly filled a room with a heavy smoke, with no unusual or producing properties, also was demonstrated.

The market quickly turned irregular, however, as the heaviest of United States Steel, which extended its loss to two points, caused some uneasiness, and tighter money was feared, despite the arrival of $2,500,000 in gold from England yesterday. Banks are expected to make further preparations for the Feb. 1 settlements today, and the money market displayed extreme sensitiveness yesterday, call money rising a point to 7 per cent on withdrawal of but about $20,000,000.

Steel Is Watched.

United States Steel was closely watched, as expectations of an extra dividend in some quarters was thought likely to induce considerable disappointed selling, despite the highly satisfactory earnings report.

New Haven Railroad rose 3/4 points to 90 3/4, the highest price in 16 years.

Bloomington Bros. Safeway Stores, Eaton Axle, International Paper Co. and By-Products Coke sold a point and more higher early.

The use in Brooklyn Manhattan Transit was ascribed to the prospect of its being granted a bus franchise.

New Haven reached 90 3/4, compared to a low of 9 1/4 in 1923.

Says Witness Misstated Address.

Dennis Hagerly, who testified in behalf of Thomas Hayes, gangster, acquitted of the murder of Michael Longo, in Circuit Court at Clayton last week, did not live at 6832 Etzel avenue, as he testified, according to his cousin, Miss Ellen Reiter, of that address. Miss Reiter said he had visited, but never resided there.

ILLEGAL THEATER ADS APPROVED BY MAYOR

Miller Allows Fox Signs on Light Posts Because of "Civic Pride" in Enterprise.

The city ordinance which forbids use of street light standards for advertising purposes is steadily becoming a dead letter. Signs announcing the opening tomorrow night of the new Fox Theater now adorn the poles on various streets.

Chief of Police Gerk, when his attention was called to the ordinance, said the police would take no action. "Mayor Miller approved the signs," the Chief said. "The Mayor told Col. Orrick, president of the Police Board, that the opening of the new theater was a matter of civic pride and therefore the signs were all right."

A similar use of the light poles for advertising was made when the Ambassador Theater was opened. Candidates for public office also have used the public property for their announcements. Recently when the new concrete poles were installed signs advertising Mayor Miller, the contractor and a supply company decorated the poles. The City Counselor ruled this was not a violation of the ordinance as the poles had not been officially accepted by the city.

"No permit for the signs was granted and I don't know anything about it," George B. Heath, superintendent of lighting, told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "You know how it is," he added, "they just put 'em up."

Director of Public Utilities Pritchard said he had refused requests by several organizations (which desired to use the standards for advertising purposes and he had made no exception for the Fox Theater.

"It is up to the police to enforce the ordinance," Pritchard said. "We have written to the police frequently about this law. I didn't know about these signs until I saw one at Washington and Garrison avenues yesterday. I told a policeman there about them. I don't intend to communicate with the Chief of Police."

The Fox signs are in the shape of a shield with an American flag at either side. Patriotic societies have objected to the use of the flag in advertising.

BURSTING OF WATER MAIN CAUSES $50,000 DAMAGE

Takes Firemen Six Hours to Repair Break at Stix, Baer & Fuller Store.

The bursting of an 8-inch water main beneath the basement of the Stix, Baer & Fuller building at 6 p. m. yesterday, damaged stock approximately $50,000 and required six hours for firemen to repair the break.

The main, which supplies the store's sprinkler system, was two and one-half feet below the basement floor and displaced a 10-foot-square section of concrete when it burst. The cause of the break has not been established. Water more than a foot deep covered the basement floor when firemen controlled the flow at 7:30 p. m.

The basement, which is closed today, will be opened for business tomorrow, R. P. Gamble, superintendent of the building, said.

1 Goods That Were Soaked Thoroughly drenched by water, some of the goods were greatly damaged. These offerings are priced a little more than nothing.

2 Goods Affected by Dampness Exposed to the moisture, many of the articles were but little affected. Nevertheless they are priced at great reductions.

3 Goods That Were Mussed In salvaging the merchandise much of it was mused or soiled by handling. Although entirely unaffected by the water, these goods are also priced amazingly low.

IT is easy to understand why this sale is of tremendous interest to all thrifty people! Many thousands of dollars' worth of good, staple merchandise was damaged by water in The Downstairs Store, Tuesday, January 22... Every particle of it is now to be offered at prices which are far less than the original cost.

Silks, curtains and draperies, floorcoverings, table and bed linen and all types of apparel will be offered at prices so low as to be little short of ridiculous . . . Because much of the merchandise is being marked while this advertisement is written, it is impossible to list the hundreds of items which will be on sale.

The insurance companies have borne the loss. To salvage what they could, they have turned the goods back to us to sell at a sacrifice. There are thousands of articles to choose from—the great majority in condition to give worth-while service. For sensational values, FOLLOW THE RED-AND-WHITE SIGNS!

MOTORIST KILLED AT CROSSING BY SWITCH ENGINE

Samuel Berger Victim of Crash at President Street and Missouri Pacific Tracks.

Samuel Berger, 50 years old, a decorator, 5701 Chamberlain avenue, was killed at 5:30 p. m. yesterday when an automobile he was driving was struck by a switch engine at President street and the Missouri Pacific tracks.

Although the locomotive, which was backing, was traveling at the rate of eight miles an hour, according to Engineer Elvis Perry, the machine was dragged 300 feet down the track. Berger was dead when removed from the wreckage of his car. The fireman, John Layman, said he looked ahead when the engine was about 100 feet from the crossing but did not see the machine and returned to his work. The crossing is unguarded. An open verdict was returned by a coroner's jury today.

Man Killed Near Knob View When Train Hits Auto.
Roy Humes 24 years old, of Knob View, Mo., was killed and Daniel Wagner, 30, a chauffeur, 1945 Congress street, was seriously injured yesterday when a truck in which they were riding was struck by Frisco passenger train No. 12 near Knob View, 95 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Humes and Wagner were placed on the train and brought to St. Louis, Humes dying on the way. A coroner's verdict of accident was returned today.

Wagner is at Frisco Hospital, where his condition was reported improved today. Charles Franz, 5212 Queens avenue, was cut and bruised yesterday afternoon when he was dragged a distance of 25 feet after cranking his machine while it was in gear at Sixth and Chestnut streets. The machine, which started as Franz cranked it, collided with a parked car.

TEMPERANCE IN JUGO-SLAVIA Government to Take Strict Action Against Drunkenness.

By the Associated Press.
BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 30.—The new government intends to take strong measures against alcoholic drinks. While total prohibition is not contemplated, the government, being appalled at the effects attributed to excessive drinking, has decided to make drunkenness a crime.

Anyone found drunk in a public place will be severely punished, especially if the offender is a civil servant. Certain repressive measures included already in the new penal code will be greatly strengthened.

Many of our own lovely women go to Europe to discover the international fame of a beauty treatment which is already popular throughout America.

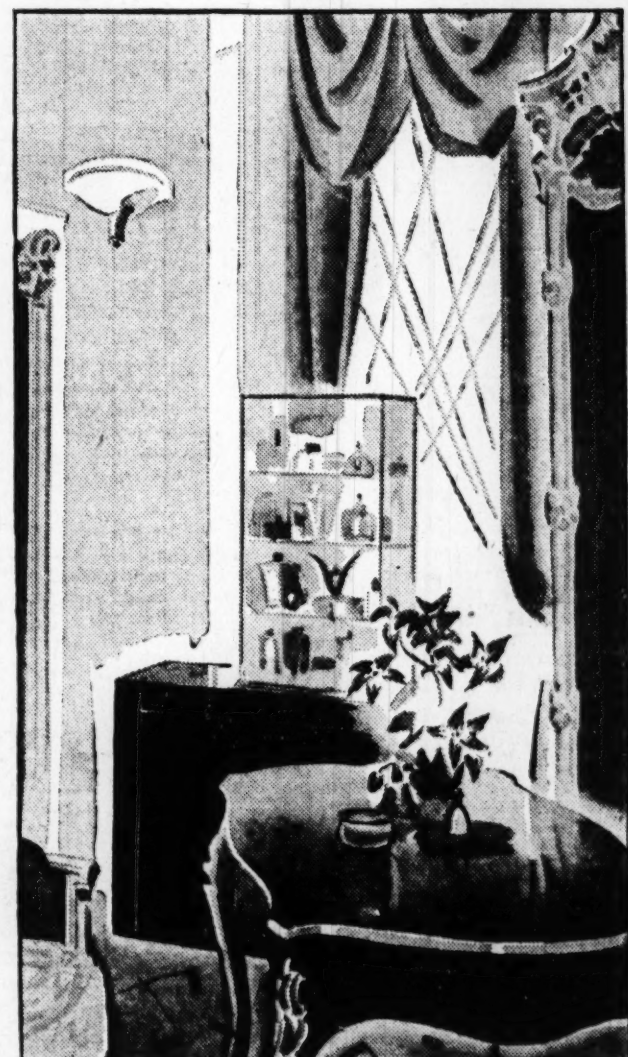

They go to Vienna and hear from Pessl this same truth. Madame Jacobson, of London; Massé, of Paris; Lina Cavallieri, of Paris—these are just a few of the more than five score outstanding international beauty specialists who advise twice-a-day use of a soap containing palm and olive oils. They recommend one soap—and one soap only—Palmolive!

Leading American specialists have long agreed on the importance of palm and olive oils in cleansing.

These are the reasons why Madame Bock stresses the importance of "foundation cleansing." Powder and rouge gradually work their way into the pores. Only a part remains on the surface. The rest combines with dust, dirt and oil. And soon, tiny, stubbornly hard masses form. Unless one washes the face this special way morning and evening—blackheads, pimples, dreaded blemishes appear!

A famous 2-minute rule

This is the 2-minute home beauty treatment Elise Bock herself would give you in her select studio de beauté: make a fine, creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. With both hands, massage it gently into the pores for about two minutes, so that the olive oil suds work their way into the pores. Then rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, gradually letting it get colder.

All middle Europe seeks the final refinements of beauty in this smart Berlin establishment, the elegant salon of Elise Bock, at 138 Kantstrasse. An air of Eighteenth Century Beauty marks Bock's distinguished salon.

What Elise Bock tells her Mid-European patrons, Paris long has known, for today, in France—home of cosmetics, leader in soaps and elegant toilettries—Palmolive is one of the two largest selling soaps... it is first in the United States and 48 other countries!

MAN AND SON HELD, LIGHT BILL EVIDENCE

Paid Statement Found in Bakery Office Where Stranger Dropped Revolver.

A father and son were arrested yesterday afternoon because an electric light bill for their home was dropped by one of three men who called at the Ward Baking Co.'s office, Taylor and Duncan avenues.

Miss Alma Ludwig was at the information desk when the men walked in and one inquired: "Is Mr. Bohunk here?" "There's nobody by that name here," Miss Ludwig replied. One of the other men stooped to the floor and Miss Ludwig saw that he had dropped a revolver. She called for help and another woman employee screamed. The men fled to an automobile and drove away. They picked up the revolver, but overlooked the light bill, which was for $1.31 and had been paid yesterday.

The father and son not only denied having been in the Ward office, but asserted they had not paid their bill and didn't know who had.

An armed man obtained $20 in a holdup of a filling station at 4945 Page boulevard, at 7:30 a. m. today.

A young man with shell-rimmed glasses halted Miss Helen Stone, 5791 Westminster place, as she was walking on Hamilton avenue near De Giverville avenue last night.

"Hand me your money—scream and you die," said the young man. Miss Stone handed him her purse and $4.

Estelle Cooper, Negro maid at the home of L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, at 23 Westmoreland place, was held up in front of 13 Westmoreland by two men who took $2.75.

Other holdups: Grocery of Samuel Choden, 2336 Pine street, $15 taken; confectionery of Raymond Stonecipher, 5365 Arsenal street, $15; Korger store at 2700 Madison street, $25; drug store at 5401 Murdock avenue, $50; shoe store of Joseph Rush, 2215 Franklin avenue, $12.

Henry L. Williams of Joplin, Mo., a guest at the Claridge Hotel, reported his Moon sedan containing a suitcase, grips and a brief case, which held notes for $3950, was stolen yesterday from West Pine boulevard and Euclid avenue.

A $200 radio stolen Dec. 27 from the home of Mrs. Lillian Brodhage, 6229 Junata street, was recovered from a man who said he bought it from two strangers for $6.

A burglar who broke into a rear bedroom of the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harding, 6012 McPherson avenue, while guests were being entertained in front, stole a child's bank containing $5.

Injured Man Taken to Hospital. Fred Baute, 41 years old, of 5532 Jennings road, St. Louis County, was taken to City Hospital last night from Hodiamont and Easton avenues suffering from a fractured jaw and possible skull fracture. Baute said he suffered the injuries in a fight, but declined to name his assailants.

Quick relief for COLDS
since 1889

Won't go out to play

When healthy youngsters, usually full of mischief, suddenly lose their ambition to be engineers or policemen, they are probably full of cold germs. Loss of appetite, listlessness, or feverish condition, should put parents promptly on guard.

As a rapid-action weapon against colds, no remedy is better known than GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Easy to take and mildly laxative, it rids the system of poisons caused by colds. The tonic properties keep vitality up.

Because grip, influenza, and other serious illnesses often begin with a cold, it is wise to obtain quick relief when any cold threatens. And equally wise, to make certain of getting the right remedy. So emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

MRS. HIGBEE'S WILL UPHELD BY JURY VERDICT

Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, a Niece, Had Sued to Set It Aside on Ground of Undue Influence.

A jury in Judge Falkenhainer's court this afternoon upheld the will of Mrs. Fannie Higbee, disposing of a $1,300,000 estate. Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, a niece, sued to set aside the will. The jury reached a unanimous verdict, after considering the case an hour and 10 minutes.

Mrs. Higbee, who died in January, 1927, left the bulk of her estate to the family of her sister, Mrs. Louisa Chapman of Detroit. The latter's son, Benjamin G. Chapman, Jr., of this city was named as executor. Bequests of $5000 each were left to Mrs. Pulitzer and her three sisters. If the suit had been successful, these four sisters, daughters of the late Mrs. William B. Edgar, would have been entitled to one-half the estate, and the Chapmans to one-half. It was alleged in the suit that Mrs. Higbee was not of sound mind at the time of making her will in 1924, and that she was unduly influenced.

A gathering which filled the courtroom listened to the arguments, lasting two and one-half hours, and made by Samuel H. Liberman and Thomas M. Pierce for the plaintiff, and by Edward W. Foristel, opening and closing for the defense.

Before dismissing the jury, Judge Falkenhainer asked whether "anybody has talked" to any of them during the trial. No one replied.

The will contains a forfeiture clause, directing that any heir contesting the will shall be cut off from any substantial benefit from the estate. Mrs. Pulitzer did not accept her $5000 bequest, and thus was the only person in position to file a contest, as her sisters accepted their bequests.

Foristel argued that Mrs. Higbee, in willing most of her property to the family of her sister, Mrs. Louisa Chapman of Detroit, Mich., had followed the wishes of her uncle, William R. Pye, from whom she inherited most of the property. He said that incapacity on her part to make a will had not been proved. He suggested that if the will were to be overthrown the words, "Here lies an insane woman" should be placed on Mrs. Higbee's tombstone.

The plaintiff's attorneys reviewed the testimony, and said that they sought justice, and that there had been no reflection on the Christian character of Mrs. Higbee. In arguing the charge of undue influence, Liberman said the testimony had shown that, whenever Mrs. Higbee made a will, "there was always a Chapman in the scene either before or after."

Besides the counsel named, former Circuit Judge Cave was associated with the defense, and John H. Overall with the plaintiff's case.

GIRL NEWS VENDER MISSING, TWO COUNTIES JOIN SEARCH

Police and Sheriff's Poses Near Paxton, Ind. Seek 10-Year-Old, Gone Since Sunday.

By the Associated Press. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 30.—Police and Sheriff's poses of Vigo and Sullivan counties today were searching the vicinity of Paxton, Ind., 40 miles south of here, for further clues to the disappearance of Edith May Dierdorf, 10-year-old West Terre Haute news girl, who vanished Sunday morning.

A stained newspaper bag belonging to the child was found on a highway near Paxton yesterday. It was identified by Earl Wetzel, a news dealer, who said the girl bought a paper from him Sunday, saying it was for an extra customer.

Police expressed the belief that the extra customer abducted the girl. They are working on the theory that the newspaper bag was used as a hood to stifle the child's cries and that she had been struck on the head. The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dierdorf.

FAMOUS KONJOLA

Years of Extreme Suffering

ed all other medicines and treatments. Daily the Konjola Man, who is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 513 Olive street, this city, is besieged by men and women who wish to find out for themselves about this advanced medicine. Konjola's method of working, its history is an open book, there is no mystery, no secret, about its success. The Konjola Man is here to answer all questions—to explain Konjola. He will tell you how the 32 ingredients in Konjola, 22 of which are the juices from roots and herbs, are compounded into a medicine that works with the sufferer's own food, restoring a more normal, healthy action to the important functional organs of the body. He will point out case after case like that of Mr. William Kunz, Baden Station, R. R. No. 30, this city, who had a most remarkable experience with Konjola. Mr. Kunz's statement, made to the Konjola Man, reads as follows:

"This is the first time I have ever endorsed a medicine publicly, yet it is a most pleasant duty—my duty to all who suffer and who would be well again. Take Konjola, I say—it will do for others as it has for me. Stomach trouble of the worst kind made my life miserable. Food simply refused to digest—the soured and fermented, causing quantities of gas to form. Severe pains centered in the pit of the stomach, adding to my many miseries. The whole system became rundown—I was tired and worn-out, hardly able to get out of bed in the morning.

"I started on the Konjola treatment, because this medicine was so highly recommended—because I had read where it banished a case similar to mine. Sound reasoning told me that if Konjola would help others it would do the same for me. And I was not wrong—I made no mistake by giving it a trial. That was the wisest act in many years, for Konjola was exactly what I needed. The treatment hardly seemed under way when my stomach began functioning normally and regain its former healthy condition. Three hearty meals a day caused no more misery—they nourished and strengthened me, giving me more pep and energy—bashing that tired, worn-out feeling. It is a glorious thing to have health—I shall treasure it always and praise Konjola as a health-giving medicine of value above all others."

Sound, logic reasoning should show you—everyone in poor health—that what Konjola has done for Mr. Kunz, as well as for countless others—it will do for you. A trial will convince the most skeptical of Konjola's real merits—its value in ending disease and restoring new glorious and lasting health.

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen's Drug Store, 513 Olive street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Film discolors lovely teeth and then destroys them

Dental science is awakened to the danger of a new-found menace—film on teeth. Serious bodily ills are indirectly traced to it. The new way dentists urge you to remove it that stains naturally white teeth and makes them dingy. You can remove it now in 30 seconds.

The Film

NEVER offer the explanation that your teeth are naturally discolored and dull. Never say, "That's my misfortune."

Today it is common knowledge that when teeth are "off color" and dingy they are coated with a film. Endless scientific research has proved this beyond all reasonable doubt. Millions through daily experience know it to be true, as dazzling smiles on every hand will prove.

To think dull teeth are natural simply means you do not know how to remove this film on teeth correctly.

Film—its dangers

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel the dreaded coating—film. It clings to crevices and stays. It absorbs ugly stains from foods and smoking to make teeth dull and lustreless.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And germs with tartar are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Film, too, is the basis of decay and the source of the commoner disorders.

How the new way removes film

Brushing fails to remove film successfully. Now the world of science produces a special film-removing agent. First it curdles film. Then light brushing easily removes it.

Teeth begin to whiten. The onset of decay is retarded. The chief cause of pyorrhea and bleeding gums is combated at the source. And danger of many of the serious and even fatal ills that appear in later life is thus lessened to a marked degree.

Try this way for 10 days

Remove film by this method for ten days. A glorious surprise awaits you. Teeth regain sparkling whiteness. Smiles grow far more charming. This is a great step toward a winning personality. The greatest movie star could never have succeeded with dull, unattractive teeth.

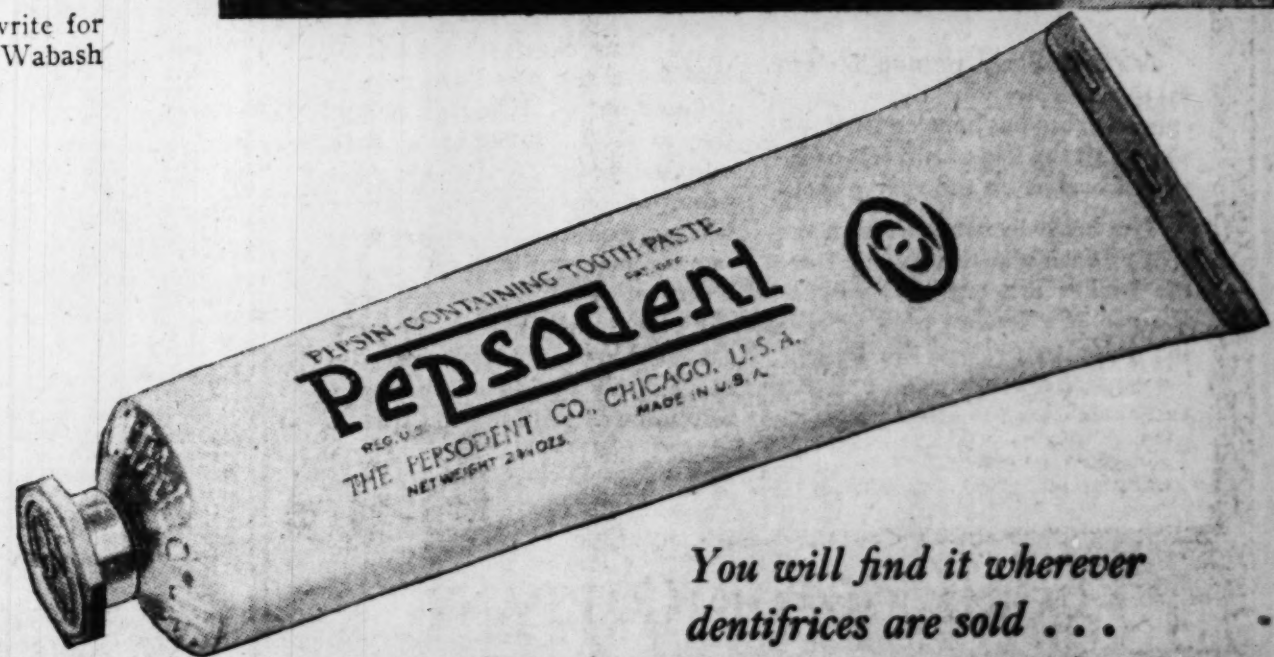

Get a full-size tube wherever dentifrices are sold or write for free 10-day tube to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago. Try this way for 10 days, then decide.

Beware when lovely teeth are placed at stake. The finest dentifrice is never too costly when science recommends it again, but the swell has gone down and the wind has shifted to the south. We could see this morning that the north wind had blown in so much drift ice that it was now clear water to the north was seen from the deck. It was loose stuff, however, and exerting very little pressure. The thermometer had gone up again and it was almost hot, certainly some degrees above freezing.

Byrd's Ships and Men Imperiled by Ice Cakes

Parts of the big house have been put over the side on the dock and the center section of the Ford wing was lying well in from the ship for safety, at least it seemed safer in there than close to the Eleanor Bolling. Everything out on the barrier has been moved back farther from the edge because of a crack, which has been there for several days. Coal bags and gasoline drums and the Fokker were all pulled inland.

Ice Breaks Under Men.
Bernie Balchen and Bubber had started up the slope and Eddie Goodale, one of the dog drivers, was just behind them on the way to his team. Down on the dock June and Demas and others were working when a tiny crack opened just between Demas' legs. He looked down at it in amazement. Motionless. His feet went farther apart in a moment for the crack was three feet wide in 30 seconds. Then he yelled: "The ice is breaking!" and threw himself to one side, falling at full length, narrowly avoiding dropping between the two crunching cakes.

Goodale felt the ice sway under him and was puzzled to know what had happened.
"It was like an earthquake," he said, "and I didn't dream it was under me. There was a soft crunching and noise below and I looked back."

As he did so, he saw a crack opening just behind him and the ice there settling slowly but surely. He jumped across and started for the breaking dock and the ships leaping over more cracks which opened all around him. And no sooner had he reached one of the large cakes which had been half of the dock than the whole slope slid with a hissing sound down into the water and a piece of the adjoining barrier fell. Where had been a smooth high pathway a moment before was a broken mass of big cakes sliding up and down again in the mush filled water.

Cakes Form Two Slopes.
The dock first had broken near the barrier, where there was a slight rise of about 10 feet and had settled there a little so that when the break came in the center parallel to the barrier where Demas straddled it, the two center edges of the cakes rose until they formed an apex of two slopes, one down to the ship and the other down toward the barrier. One of the top of the crack was about three feet apart at first but gradually opened up until it was 10 feet wide. The inside piece rose until for a time it threatened to turn over, and if it had done so, it would have raised havoc with the ships. It might have crushed the Bolling as the "City of New York" outside of her, was up against the packed drift ice.

And to the north between the two big cakes of what had been the dock and the slope were high broken pieces of ice, on one of which was a sled loaded with coal bags and two empty freight sleds, which slowly slid down a slope into the water.

As the big crack widened a ski pedestal, a heavy piece of laminated wood, slid down to the smashed ice between the cakes and another pedestal hung over the edge. One section of the house toppled over into the water.

There was a call for all hands and men eagerly tumbled over the side to the broken ice with not a thought of themselves and intent only on saving their precious material. The most important piece of this was the center wing section of the big Ford plane which lay on the slope of the inner dock cake so far down that it would not be seen from the deck of the Bolling. Without that wing the plane could not be flown.

There was need for swift and concerted action to get order and safety out of this chaos, and Commander Byrd rose to the occasion, cool as he always is when something goes wrong. He was one of the first men out on the ice and his first thought as always was for his men. Balchen and Bubber were out of sight and for a moment there was fear that they had been lost.

Byrd instructed Capt. Brown of the Bolling to blow the whistle, and after a few blasts Balchen and Bubber scrambled out of the Fokker cabin in which they had been working.

"Thank God," said Byrd, and turned his attention to the danger on the ice.

Life Belts Ordered On.
"Life belts on," he ordered. "I do not want a man out here with a belt on." When they had been found and put on the watch below had come up, sleepily rubbing their eyes and pulling on their clothes.

Some one grabbed the pedestal which was tottering to the edge of the crack and hauled it to safety. Bill Gavronski, the stowaway on the Bolling, who had been shifted to the New York, lay down and while others held his legs he slipped over into the big crack and got hold of the other pedestal and pulled it out.

Pieces of the house, heavy, clumsy things which ordinarily would have been moved slowly, were jarred from the ice and to men's shoulders and tossed aboard as if they were match boxes. Sweat poured down their faces. They soaked their shirts. They paid no attention to the movement of the ice on which they were standing. It sloped more and more and the crack widened.

Byrd Directs Operations.
Rope, guy wire, odds and ends of stuff were thrown over the side under Byrd's direction while he walked about telling them what to do. He had a life belt on and he had a megaphone in his hand so there would be no possibility of not hearing him in an emergency.

Getting a section of the house out of the water was something of a job, but Joe de Gama jumped down on it and thrust his arms into the slush on which it was lying so that he might pass a rope around it. Then he grabbed the hands of those above him and was lifted out and the piece of house was rescued before it had had time to get soaked.

The sleds, which had slipped overboard, were lying between two cakes of ice, the nearest of which was sticking a few feet out of the water. The first sled was brought up with a hook, and while it was held by many hands, and the forward sled was held by the line leading over the wreck of the slope to the block ashore, Jim Feury crawled over the sleds to let the line go. Harry Adams, with a line around his waist, went down on the lower and smaller cake to help, and after Feury had crawled back on the sleds and insecure pathway, the sleds were brought up to safety and put back to the ship.

Sled Saved, Coal Is Lost.
The sled holding the coal on another cake was then unloaded while the cakes smashed together. The coal bags were left, but the sled was hauled back to safety. This had no sooner been done than the cake broke up and five coal bags slipped into the water and went to the bottom, and the other bag on a small piece of ice is now heading north for the Ross Sea and New Zealand but it won't go far.

When everything but the center section of the wing of the plane had been brought aboard the Bolling, this was the farthest away from the ship and the most difficult to move because of the crack. Byrd ordered all but a few picked men aboard the ship. The wing section was on the other side of the crack. Although it is of duraluminum it is heavy because of its size and clumsy to handle. The bowline, holding the ship to the inner piece of ice, then was taken in slowly on the winch in an effort to draw the wing closer to the ship. The strain caused the inner cake to tip away from the ship.

Wing of Plane Rescued.
"Don't pull any more," yelled Byrd, "or we may up end that ice. That is near enough."

Planks were thrown hastily across the crack and spikes driven down to keep them from slipping back. The planks were covered with snow, two men shoveling as fast as they could and others ran over to the wing section.

"June, take charge of that," called Byrd, and the men lifted the precious bit of wing to their shoulders and walked back to the planks.

The wing section was lifted quickly and carried to the plank runway on which it was placed and in less than a minute it was down on the lower ice cake. Then it was picked up and carried alongside the ship, a cable hooked to it and it was drawn up to the deck.

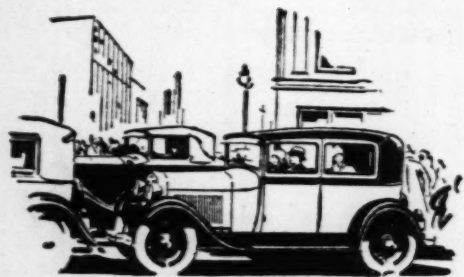

This had no sooner been done than both halves of what had been the dock began to move out from the barrier. The drift ice already had shifted considerably and there was open water outside of us, so quickly do things change down here. A heavy snow squall came up, large, sticky flakes, which melted as soon as they lit on the deck and it was impossible to see the mass of material piled on the barrier only a few hundred feet away. But overhead there was a pale luminous spot where the sickly sun was trying to break through to enlighten our gray world. The shore-lines were cast off, the ice anchors drawn in by the winches and fortunately we did not lose one of them.

Bolling Cargo Transferred.
The two ships, still lashed together, began to drift out into the bay and work was immediately begun loading the cargo from the Bolling into the New York so that the Bolling may get back to New Zealand and come down again for another trip before the bay begins to freeze. The remains of our dock drifted out to sea and the last we saw of them they were far away, a pile of pieces of the airplane crates lying on the top of one cake. But we got no more of them.

Then the fickle Antarctic changed its mood again. Under the southern wind the sky cleared, the snow fall ended and the sun is now shining warmly while we are edging our way back toward the low part of the barrier in the hope of landing the Ford airplane there. The bay ice is at last moving out and it may be possible for the New York to get much nearer to the base if the low barrier point proves untenable or shows signs of breaking. But the work has not yet started and as much is being accomplished as though our dock had stayed with us a little longer. The leader of an expedition down here has to adapt himself to rapidly changing conditions and so far he has been able to do so. This gang just refuses to be licked.

Rearrested Following Acquittal.
MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Jan. 29. — Just after he was acquitted by a Circuit Court jury here yesterday of receiving stolen property, Jesse Kirkland was rearrested by Sheriff Flanagan on charges growing out of the theft of an automobile here a year ago.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

THREE CHILDREN AND WOMAN

BITTEN BY STRAY DOG

Animal Is Killed and Victims Are Treated With Anti-Rabies Serum.
A woman and three children were bitten by a stray dog in the vicinity of Twentieth street and Cass avenue at noon yesterday before it was killed. The head was sent to city laboratories for analysis and the persons bitten were treated with anti-rabies serum at City Hospital.
Those bitten were Angeline Pachowski, 7 years old, 1414 Sar-field place, bitten on the left leg;
Teddy Lazars, 9, 1317 Sarfield place, right leg; Alex Gankowski Jr., 8, 1856 North Market street, right leg, and Mrs. Vincenza Larocco, 1440 North Nineteenth street, bitten on the hands and arms.

Cheaper Long-Distance Phone Calls

A reduction of from 5 to 25 cents on long-distance telephone calls to points 150 to 1500 miles distant will become effective Friday, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. announces. The cut in rates, the third to be made in slightly more than two years, will effect savings to telephone users of about $5,000,000 annually, it is estimated, of which about $750,000 will apply in the territory served by the Southwestern company.

SAYS MRS. M'PHERSON

GAVE JUDGE MORE FEES

Legislator Declares Witness
Will Testify About Payments
Other Than $2500 Check.
By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—A new phase appeared today in the legislative investigation of the payment of $2500 by Almes Sample Mc-Pherson to Judge Carlos S. Hardy of the Los Angeles Superior Court after Assemblyman Walter J. Little, chairman of the committee, had disclosed that he would produce a witness who would testify that the jurist received other amounts of money from the evangelist.
Little refused to give the name of the witness, in spite of demands by Judge Hardy's attorneys.
"I do not intend to have this investigation hampered," said Little in declining to name the witness.
Mrs. McPherson denied, when questioned by Little, that she ever had paid bills in cash.
Judge Hardy appeared before the investigators yesterday and told his story of the check, which has caused his expulsion from the American Bar Association and which may result in impeachment charges being filed against him.
Admits Getting Check.
The jurist admitted receiving the check; admitted that he had taken an active part in an attempt to "find out the truth" about the evangelist's disappearance nearly three years ago, but said that in doing these things he had been careful to avoid violating judicial ethics.
"I never considered that I gave Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, any legal advice or acted in any way as a lawyer," he testified.
The jurist admitted having failed to file an income tax return for 1926, the year in which he received the check, pointing out that his salary as a State official, was exempt from Federal taxation and claiming the $2500, being a "surprise" and a "free will offering," was exempt.
Judge Hardy declared that his interest in the work of the evangelist was attributable to his "response to the evangelical type of preaching."
Interested in Her Work.
"I saw a tremendous number of people at Angelus Temple of the class I felt I could work with, and I felt I would like to take part," he testified. "I have always been responsive to the evangelical type of preaching and believed that Angelus Temple would develop into a great work."
"I felt that I was recognized by the membership and the community as an active participant in church affairs. The disappearance of Mrs. McPherson was a shock to me. When I went to the church, hundreds of people spoke to me about it. Then came her return and the shock on a different aspect, a sense of outrage at the possibility of such a terrible crime having been committed. I advised Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy to discover all the facts."
"And then the scandal started, and it was suggested that she had not been kidnapped. I viewed the situation as any other church member might. I felt that I was as much involved as anyone connected with the church."
The white-haired jurist gripped the arms of the witness chair and his voice trembled with emotion as he said:
"I believed that, if Angelus Temple went down and was destroyed,
I would go with it. I could not separate myself from the church.
I wanted to find out the truth."
A chorus of "Amen" from the audience followed this statement by the jurist.

Thin Folks! Here's 5 Pounds of Solid Flesh or Money Back

Underweight means your vitality is under par, your strength and energy below normal, so no wonder if you are thin, scrawny with sunken chest and hollows in your cheeks, you always feel down in the mouth, discouraged and rundown in health.

There isn't an underweight man or woman on earth who wouldn't feel better if their weight was what it should be.

That's why every man and woman whose bones are scantily covered and who want to gain in health and have an attractive figure should take advantage of McCoy's offer.

McCoy takes all the risk—Realize this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's

EX-CONVICT TO BE TRIED ON CHARGE SIDENER DROPPED

Frank "Yellow" Smith Arrested on Order of Circuit Attorney Miller.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, who recently announced he intended to reopen several cases which had been dropped by Howard Sidener without trial, yesterday caused Frank Smith, 40-year-old ex-convict as "Yellow" Smith, to be rearrested.

In February, 1927, Smith was arrested on a warrant charging theft of automobile accessories from Joseph Spirakis, 1517 North Ninth street. While out on bond, in the following October, he was sent to Leavenworth Penitentiary for theft from an interstate shipment. The State thereupon dismissed its case.

Now that Smith has completed his Federal sentence, Miller thinks there is no reason why he should not be tried on the State charge.

Police say Smith served two years in prison for forgery committed in 1920 and also served several jail terms.

SANDINO REPORTED PLOTTING NEW REBELLION IN NICARAGUA

Offer to Lay Down Arms Said to Have Been Ruse to Get Marines Away.

By the Associated Press.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 30.—An alleged plan of Augustino Sandino to overthrow the new Liberal Government of Nicaragua after giving the appearance of abandoning the warfare which he has waged for two years was disclosed here yesterday. Froylan Turcios, who has been the general representative abroad of the insurgent leader, resigned rather than subscribe to these methods, it is reported.

Sandino is said to have outlined the plan last December in a letter to Turcios. He would agree to cease fighting and leave the country provided all United States troops evacuated Nicaragua. Sandino was to discharge his men and surrender, apparently, his arms to President Jose Maria Moncada as soon as the Marines had left the departments of Estelí, Matagalpa, Jinotega and Nueva Segovia.

Sandino, however, according to the latest report, planned to surrender only part of the arms and hide his main armament in the mountains; his men would remain in these four northern departments, apparently dedicated to agricultural work but in reality ready for a call from their leader. Sandino would go to Mexico and while total evacuation was being completed by United States troops he would secretly organize a strong maritime expedition. Once Nicaragua was clear of its northern defenders, he would attack the important seaport of Corinto while his former army, reorganized, would join him and march to the capital.

MRS. DALLEY WILSON SENT TO PSYCHOPATHIC WARD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—An order committing Mrs. Dallett Wilson, big game huntress and Washington society woman, recently convicted of shooting her husband, to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital was served on the warden of Jefferson Market Women's prison today. Mrs. Wilson is awaiting sentence on conviction of felonious assault.

The order committing Mrs. Wilson to Bellevue was signed by Judge Charles C. Nott of General Sessions.

Ten Tons of Coal Free!

Whom have we been serving longest since we started to sell fuel to St. Louisans? The Merchants Ice & Coal Co. has been in business many years. We now have hundreds of satisfied customers. We take pride in their confidence and we want to hear from them.

Think back through the years and recall when you placed your first order with the Merchants Ice & Coal Co., then write us a letter telling any details, when and what you ordered from us then. Also state why you buy coal, coke or wood from us now.

To the writer of the letter describing the earliest fuel purchase we will give absolutely free four tons of MERCHANTS SUPREME, the highest quality Illinois coal, delivered at your order where you wish. To the second, two tons, and to the next four we will give one ton each. Letters must be in our hands on or before Feb. 15, 1929. Old receipts of bills not necessary—just tell us your story. Our records will verify your date.

Now Senator Calls Address
Urging Cruisers Greatest Ever Made by "Exponent of Cannibalism."

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Senator Reed of Missouri, in his best fighting trim, loosed broadside after broadside of sarcasm in the Senate this afternoon against those who are opposing the 15-Cruiser bill. He made a special target of Senator Brookhart, (Rep.), Iowa.

"All the military and naval experts of the world," said Reed, "agree that cruisers are necessary to meet, and they are opposed only by the experts of the American Senate. These Senate experts consist of Rear Admiral Brookhart, Major General Brookhart, Chief of the Air Service Brookhart, General Opinion of Making Brookhart, General Opinion of the World Brookhart, Custodian of Farmers and Laborers Brookhart, Custodian of the Universal Conscience Brookhart and Custodian of the Wisdom of the Brookhart."

Reed began on a solemn note, declaring there were at work in the country forces inimical to the welfare and the safety of the Republic. He paid his respects to the "dreamers" who had said that there would come no more.

"Diogenes," he observed, "lived a dog as well as a man. One day when he was walking along with his eyes on the heavens, he fell into a ditch, where dreamers generally fall, and a hard-headed lady said to him, 'When you are on the ground, your head should not be in the sky.'"

"Men sent here to represent the people," Reed continued, should be "watchmen in the tower." "The people had a right to expect that these watchmen would take no chances that could be avoided."

"They should never lose sight of the fact," he said, "that in preserving the Republic, they perform the greatest possible service to mankind the world over."

Reed raked the "pacifists" with full vocabulary of invective. They were people "wandering in a daze," he said, "who did not realize that the best safeguard of any nation would have been the ability to defend itself. They had forgotten that the other nations were 'not' assumed with any yearnings in regard to the aspirations of this country." He desired to reflect on the nation, he said, but it must be realized that they had their own ambitions and interests, and the background were "the prejudices of centuries and the economic forces that compel governments to yield even to the point of making war."

"The first duty of this body," he said, "is to protect America, to make certain that we are safe, to close our ears to the whispering of the whinnies of that class of people who too often have led us into mistakes and blunders."

"The lowest form of animal life is the citizen of any country who thinks more of internationalism than of nationalism."

Quoted Opinions of Opponents.
"What is the cry that we hear in opposition to this bill? It is that a new dispensation has come upon the earth; that the hearts of men have changed; that no longer is there such a thing as selfishness. We have gentlemen here who undertake to speak for world opinion, self-constituted and self-appointed individuals, who undertake to become the voice of the universe."

But the general opinion of mankind of which we have heard so much is not to be ascertained by the dreams of these enthusiasts, by the propaganda of pacifists or by the treason of internationalists. The opinion of the nations must be determined by the policies they follow."

He gave figures on the armies and navies of all the great nations figures, he declared, which "registered their opinion and purpose."

In the face of the war preparations going on throughout the world, he said it was "imbecile" to cry that we could put our faith in treaties.

"There is no heaven where we are now dwelling," he continued. "We are living on this cold, hard, old earth."

"There must be preparation or there will come defeat."

"Anemic—I had almost said white-livered-men are going about the country saying that war never comes again. Yet the story of the world is the story of treaties made and broken."

After Reed had finished, Senator Brookhart rose and said: "You have just listened to the greatest speech ever made by the exponent of cannibalism."

Reed replied that Brookhart was a friend and he wanted to treat him as gently as possible.

HOOVER FOR CLOSE CONTACT WITH FEDERAL BUREAUS

Wants Additional Secretary to Act as Liaison Officer Between Himself and Many Agencies.

PROPOSES EQUAL RATING FOR 3 AIDS

Akerson and Richey Probably Will Be Named to Two Posts at the White House.

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—Close contact with the more than half a hundred independent agencies of the Federal Government is planned by President-elect Hoover during his administration.

This explains the pending request before Congress for an emergency appropriation of $10,000 for an additional White House secretary. This official will be the liaison officer between the President and the independent organizations which include the Veterans' Bureau, the Shipping Board, the Federal Waterpower Commission and many others.

These agencies expend close to three-quarters of a billion dollars annually and the direction and supervision of their policies has added a burden upon the presidency which both President Coolidge and Hoover have agreed should be lightened so far as possible.

Equal Rating for Secretaries.
If Congress approves the recommendation for the additional appropriation made by Mr. Coolidge, Hoover, as President, will have three secretaries who will have equal rating and among whom will be parceled the three major divisions of work in the executive offices.

Besides the secretary who will keep in contact with the independent agencies there will be one to give attention to the enormous volume of mail which flows through the White House and another to deal with members of Congress and the public.

The next chief executive has given no indication as to whom he will choose in the three secretarial jobs. The general expectation is that two of them will go to George Akerson and Lawrence Richey who during the campaign bore the title of "assistants" to Hoover.

Akerson, a former newspaper man, had a dual role while President Coolidge was in power, handling a large part of the correspondence and dealing directly with the hundreds of callers at Hoover's headquarters. When the President-elect came to Florida he left Akerson to keep in touch with Senators and Representatives who might desire to consult the next President and yet who could not find the time to make the trip to Florida.

Richey Long With Hoover.
Richey has been associated with Hoover since the early war days and acting as his secretary during the Florida vacation.

There also have been suggestions that Hoover would pick an experienced politician as his personal secretary since that officer is assumed to advise him with political appointments as well as represent him frequently in dealings with Congressional and party leaders.

The roles were followed by President Coolidge in the selection of C. Bascom Sienk, former Representative from the Ninth Virginia District, and now Republican National Committeeman for the old dominion, and in the appointment of former Representative Sanders of Indiana, when Sienk resigned.

The President-elect spent most of the forenoon today working on his inaugural address. For the present he is giving his attention to that part dealing with foreign relations.

CHARGES HEAD OF OKLAHOMA COURT PROPOSED FRAUD

Former Gov. Trapp Says
Chief Justice Mason Had Plan to Collect Funds For Brick Combine.

"OFFERED AID IN CASE ON DOCKET"

Gov. Johnston to Appear
Tomorrow Before Senate Tribunal to Answer Impeachment Charges.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Jan. 30.—With the State Supreme Court and the Fish and Game Department offering fresh fields for inquiry, the Legislature today prepared to investigate governmental activities of Oklahoma's official family and put the final touches on its case against Henry S. Johnston, suspended Governor, who goes before a Senate impeachment court tomorrow to answer articles of impeachment voted against him by the House and Senate.

The House yesterday added three charges to the eight to which Johnston will plead before the impeachment court. Two dealing with the illegal issuance of deficiency certificates and one charging general incompetency. There was heated debate, particularly on the latter charge, but it finally passed, 72 to 26.

Report About Mrs. Hammonds.
In testimony before the House investigating committee a statement has been made involving Representative who has remained friendly to the Johnston administration, that he had heard the suspended Governor discharge Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, his confidential secretary, on the day he was temporarily removed from office. This Representative promptly denied the statement. Much criticism has been leveled at Johnston for his employment of Mrs. Hammonds and his refusal to dismiss her.

Johnston, himself, refused to comment on the report, but Mrs. Hammonds denied any such action.

Strong criticism of the State Supreme Court, and particularly of Charles W. Mason, Chief Justice, who will preside over the impeachment trial of Johnston, was heard from M. E. Trapp, former Governor, who felt he to that office when Jack Walton was impeached in 1923. He testified yesterday before a House sub-committee which is investigating court.

Tells of Alleged Brick Combine.
Trapp testified that during his administration Chief Justice Mason, then a member of the court, asked him to instruct the Highway Commission to specify the use of brick for road construction in Nowata County, Mason's home county. Trapp told the committee he understood Mason was to receive $1 a thousand from a "brick combination" for bricks used. In turn, Trapp said, the Supreme Court Justice proposed to and Trapp was a construction worker by the department, and to a loan, Weems obtained on land from the State School Land Commission.

Chief Justice Mason promptly issued a denial, saying there was no foundation for Trapp's charge, and declared it was inspired by a Supreme Court decision adverse to the former executive.

Ray O. Weems, warden of the State Fish and Game Department, and Roy Check of Sallisaw, who said he had been employed by the Fish and Game Commission, testified regarding employment of workers by the department, and to a loan, Weems obtained on land from the State School Land Commission.

PRaise for ERVINE'S NEW PLAY
"The Ship" Well Received at Its Opening in London Theater.
(Copyright 1929 by the Free and Public Publishing Co., New York and London.)

LONDON, Jan. 30.—"The Ship," the latest play from the pen of St. John Ervine, English playwright and critic, now writing dramatic critiques for the New York World, was produced here Monday night at the Everyman Theater. It was warmly welcomed by the critics.

"The Times" critic commented: "This good play has itself the virtues of a good ship, structural solidity, cleanliness of line, swiftness of movement, steadiness at sea. What chiefly sets the play apart is the balance of its structure and its continued challenge to high emotion. It rides a tempo without swerving from its course. You are never reminded that this is tragedy for the theater, for it proceeds naturally and without strain from the observed condition of life."

The play deals with the struggle between a great ship owner and his son who seeks escape from the tyranny of machines, ending in disaster for both.

C. E. HUGHES RETAINED IN FIGHT ON STEWART

J. D. Rockefeller Jr. Proxy
Committee Engages H. H.
Hornbrook Also.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Charles E. Hughes and Henry H. Hornbrook, a leader of the Indiana bar, were retained yesterday by the proxy committee conducting John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s fight to have Robert W. Stewart removed as chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, but it was said no unexpected turn in affairs had developed to prompt obtaining such eminent counsel.

Hughes will act as general counsel for the committee and Hornbrook as its expert on Indiana law. The committee said that it fully expected to have enough proxies, but did not claim to have them at this time.

There are slightly more than 9,000,000 shares owned by 58,000 stockholders.

Rumors are that Percy Rockefeller might throw the votes he has to Stewart and against his cousin, John D. Rockefeller Jr. Asked if the committee knew how Percy Rockefeller was going to vote, a spokesman said:

"Yes, we know whom he will support. That was the reply."

"Who is it?"
"That we are not yet prepared to state."

A letter from a stockholder to the committee and the reply were made public to show that Rockefeller intends to vote all the proxies entrusted to him in favor of the adoption of the third employee stock purchasing plan, one of the matters that will come up for decision at the annual meeting.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The agents of John D. Rockefeller Jr. are not winning as many followers as they expected, said a statement issued yesterday from the office of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. The statement was in answer to the news that Charles E. Hughes had been retained as general counsel by the Rockefeller interests in their fight to oust Stewart from the Standard Oil chairmanship.

U. S. AIR MAIL SERVICE TO SOUTH AMERICA

Postmaster-General New Announces New Route Will Be Established Soon.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Postmaster-General New, speaking on aviation at a dinner here last night, said that the air mail service now was turning its attention to the building of a great international air mail communication system after having been a pioneer in the development of aviation in the United States.

Sketching briefly the history of the first efforts to carry mail by air, the Postmaster-General declared that the commercial development of the airplane in the United States had come about largely through the efforts of the Postoffice Department.

"The air mail routes now operate day in and day out 24 hours, a day," New said.

"Twenty-three routes are flown within the borders of the country, serving over 100 of our larger cities, carrying an average of seven and one-half tons of mail each and flying in excess of 30,000 miles daily."

"With the line from New York to Montreal, one from Miami to the British possessions in the Bahamas, another to Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic and Porto Rico, we are about to establish a route to the canal zone touching at the larger cities in our sister republics of Central America."

Serving are bringing us closer contact the people around us and thereby closely cementing their friendship and sharing their commerce, trade and industry through this medium of fast transportation."

New said that an air mail service will carry mail down the Pacific Coast to all the South American countries is being arranged and that consummation of that project was in the very near future.

Tokio Approves Pact With China.
By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Jan. 30.—The Privy Council today approved acceptance of the new Chinese tariff regime effective Feb. 1. The sanction of the Emperor is expected later today, after which the Japanese Charge d'Affaires at Peking will be ordered to sign the agreement. Japan was the last of the Powers to hold out against Chinese tariff autonomy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Opening hearings on the cotton schedule of the tariff act, the House Ways and Means Committee today received a petition for a sliding scale duty on long staple cotton, which is now on the free list.

Representative Whittington (Dem.), Mississippi, proposed that cotton one-and-one-sixteenth inches in length bear a duty of 7 cents a pound and as the length increases a higher tariff be applied until one-and-five-eighths-inch cotton bears a duty of 24 cents a pound.

Except in the emergency tariff act of 1921, which carried a rate of 7 cents on cotton one-and-three-eighths inches and longer, raw cotton has been duty free. Whittington said American production of long staple cotton in 1923 was 700,000 bales while imports were 201,856 from Egypt, 62,000 from China; 23,000 from Peru; 22,000 from Mexico and 1967 from other countries.

He argued that if long staple growers could not get a fair price for their products it would disappear as did sea island cotton. If it were not grown in the United States, he added, American manufacturers would be placed at the mercy of the growers in Egypt who receive Government aid.

Egyptian wages were estimated at only one-fifth of those in the Delta region of the South. The cotton from that country, he said, came in competition with Pima cotton in the west and Delta cotton in the Mississippi section.

Under cross examination Whittington said the complaint had been made by automobile tire manufacturers, when the emergency act was under consideration, that the Egyptian staple cotton was more suitable to their needs than the American-grown products. He expressed the opinion that American cotton could be substituted for this purpose.

The average duty under his proposal would be about 15 cents a pound. This, applied to imports would bring about $50,000,000 in revenue, he said.

Containing the average wage of the approximately 465,000 textile workers was $16 for a week of 51 hours as against $2 for all wage earners. Thomas F. McMahon, representing the United Textile Workers of America, advocated higher tariffs on the finer grades of cloth.

$300,000 NEEDED TO BUILD AQUARIUM
Plan Calls for $700,000 Structure—Only $400,000 Allotted by Bond Issue.

The St. Louis Aquarium, a bond issue project, cannot be built before 1935 unless two public-spirited citizens contribute $150,000 each to the Zoological Board of Control. Director George P. Vierheller of the Zoo said today.

The bond issue allotted $400,000 for the construction of an aquarium. Vierheller said, while the plans, drawn by the zoo architect, and now nearing completion, are for a $700,000 structure.

"It would be folly to erect a cheaper building," Vierheller said. "For our $700,000 we can get as much, we believe, as Chicago will for the $3,500,000 it is spending on the new Shedd Aquarium. A $400,000 aquarium would be inadequate. It would be crowded to capacity all of the time, and in a year or two, we would find it necessary to spend $300,000 or $400,000 for additions to the building."

"The zoo accumulates the extra $300,000, but to do so we would have to stint everything else for five or six years. It would mean that for that time, our progress would be hampered if not stopped."

"Another little-known feature is the operating expense of an aquarium. We would have to purchase the fish for the displays and we would have to have tank care of was water shipped to us every few days. Food for the fish—often fish in many cases—would be an additional expense. As an example, our new male sea elephant eats Lake Superior herring every day. He has gained 200 pounds since we have had him and now weighs just a ton."

The aquarium plans drawn by John Wallace, the zoo architect, are for an H-shaped building. The center structure will cost $400,000 and the wings, $150,000 each. Thus each of the two donors Vierheller hopes to find, would give a wing to the building, and each wing would be named after its donor.

The Steinhardt Aquarium in San Francisco and the Oppenheimer Aquarium at New Orleans were pointed out by the zoo director as examples of buildings donated by private individuals.

Civic and business organizations have frequently urged the early construction of the aquarium, pointing out that it would be a great benefit to St. Louis business interests.

An Old-Fashioned Woman Who Does Not Want to Be Emancipated.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PLEASE allow me space in your column to inquire of Miss Elizabeth Longan of the League of Women Voters as to what business she has at Jefferson City trying to put the burden of jury service upon the women of Missouri. I am quite sure I did not ask her to put this burden on me, and I know quite a few other women who are not craving for jury service, and if she and her kind would stay at home a great many of us women would be more thankful to her. But, as usual, it is a Miss instead of a Mrs. who is trying to uplift us women and detain us in some dingy jury room when we should be at home looking after our children and getting our husbands' meals.

She says the league is interested in the jury bill from the standpoint of raising the standard of justice and checking the breakdown of the jury system. Did woman in politics ever raise the standard of anything? I say no. She has proved to be just a little bit worse than the men, so what can we expect of this cigarette smoking, white male drinking generation of today? If we had more of those old-fashioned fathers who were criticizing in our Legislature, together with a few old-fashioned mothers, we probably would not have so many new-fashioned boys and girls bandits and other criminals today. What we need is more men and she-women, and less she-males and he-she-males.

I say God bless the old-fashioned fathers and mothers, and let the legislators. May they let the old-fashioned vote to relieve womanhood of this additional bondage in the guise of emancipation of woman. I don't want to serve on a jury and I don't think any real womanly woman does, but the only protection we can expect is from those old-fashioned men legislators.

Seats for the Fox Opening.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ST. LOUIS' newest movie house advertised in all papers that seats for the opening night would go on sale Monday, Jan. 28, 1929, at 9 a. m. Arriving at the box office at 9:30, I was told that all seats had been sold. The record of 6000 tickets sold in one-half hour's time would seem to be a record worth mentioning. But, on the other hand, it would be interesting to know just how many of the 6000 tickets were actually offered for sale to the St. Louis public.

Favors a Second Term for Miller.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN Henry Kiel, now candidate for a fourth term, was running for a second term, I was one of the citizens of our city something like this:

No man in one term as Mayor can possibly carry out his program or fulfill his campaign pledges; therefore, I ask you, in the name of the future welfare of St. Louis, to re-elect me your Mayor again.

Well, Mr. Kiel, it strikes me and a good many other citizens, that you ought to apply the same reasoning to our present Mayor, and give him the same opportunity you asked for and received. Therefore, Mr. Kiel, I am going to ask you, in behalf of the future welfare of St. Louis, to get out from under and cast your vote for Mayor Miller, who in his one term, has done so much for the advancement of St. Louis, and, therefore, richly deserves re-election. In order that he may continue his good work.

FAIRPLAY.

Harry Lehr.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

TO ONE who remembers the antics that Harry Lehr performed back in the '90s, I enjoyed immensely your article in the issue of Jan. 27. He was just as much a success in his line as Napoleon, and I am sorry that one who contributed so much to the gaiety of nations should have such a sad end.

Gardenville School's Name.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HOPE you can give me space in your columns to express my opposition and opinion regarding the proposed plan, pending before the Board of Education, to change the name of Gardenville school. We think Adolphus Busch is a good name and that Mr. Busch did a lot for St. Louis, but do not feel that a name should be taken from us that we hold so dear. We were caused this same grief six years ago when we had to fight to retain our good old Gardenville. We hope the Board of Education will realize that our sentiment is not changed since then, and that we are perfectly happy with our name, and hope to retain it forever. We are not narrow-minded in our views and certainly would not say anything about the men whose names are proposed. We simply want to keep Gardenville.

MRS. O. H. HEMPELMAN.

GOOD ROAD WORK ENDANGERED.

The evident effect of the Roads Bond bill recommended by the House committee is to obstruct the building of good roads instead of to construct good roads. The bill is designed to tie the hands of the Highway Commission and to provide for a division of the road bond money between the highway system and the county roads.

In the opinion of experts the bill is invalid under the constitutional amendment providing for the bond issue, because it is contrary to the clear provision of the amendment, which was designed primarily to complete the highway system and secondarily to construct county or farm-to-market roads. The amendment gives the State Highway Commission the power to determine on what roads the money shall be expended.

If the bill should be adopted by the House, whether the Senate agrees to it or the two houses deadlock, its effect will be to delay road construction an indefinite time. The validity of the law and of course the validity of bonds to be issued under it would be questioned. Good roads would be up in the air, and the prime object of the amendment would be defeated, or at least long delayed.

The road construction plans of the State Highway Commission provide amply for farm-to-market roads, but the completion of the highway system takes precedence in time. The group of representatives, however, of the rural districts pushing this bill wants $40,000,000 of the $75,000,000 of the bond issue money devoted to farm-to-market roads. They want to hog the money for the counties and are endangering the whole plan of State road construction. It is a dog in the manger policy, and if persisted in would check the one great work of the State which has done more for it than anything else and promises richer results in the future. We do not know what effort will be required to bring these misguided legislators to a sound view of the situation, but no effort should be spared. Too much depends upon the result.

TWO GREAT CITIZENS GONE.

St. Louis has lost within the past week two of her greatest and most useful citizens. They were Dr. A. E. Ewing, a man who greatly advanced the science of ophthalmology, and Mr. John M. Wulffing, who rose from humble origin in St. Louis to be honored by foreign universities for his contributions to classical archeology, philology and numismatics, and by foreign cities for his philanthropies to science and scholarship.

Dr. Ewing was at the time of his death professor emeritus of ophthalmology at Washington University. In the course of a long and brilliant career his researches in the surgery of the eye, particularly in cataract and glaucoma operations, were distinct contributions to one of the most delicate branches of modern surgery.

Mr. Wulffing's life story reads like a romance. With a capital of $1000, he launched in youth upon the wholesale grocery business in St. Louis, which prospering gave him the means to become at length one of the world's ranking numismatists, a close friend of such archeologists as Dr. James H. Breasted, Egyptologist at the University of Chicago, and Dr. Felix von Luschan of the University of Berlin. He was a student of classical archeology up to the last, an almost annual visitor to Greece, Italy and Egypt, a rap follower of excavations in the Roman Forum, at Ninveh, and in the Valley of Kings, and a man who presented the unique spectacle of a ripe, gray-haired scholar still going to university classes to study the culture of another time.

Such lives should be an inspiration to youth.

THE PROFESSOR'S "CLOSE APPROACH."

Long the molecule reigned as the Monarch of Minutim. Then the atom's dictatorship. Later the electron. Now the electron is laid low. Everything is swept away by Dr. Einstein and his disciple, Prof. Eddington, who have left us only the imaginary "ocean of psi" on which to sail in a phantom ship from Never-never to Nowhere.

The professor has invoked the game of golf to clarify the extinction of the electron. Thus: "Let us trace the adventures of two electrons, alias golf balls, before and after a close approach. . . . After the incident our two golf balls are lying on the fairway."

"They are, are they? And that's a 'close approach.' Well, professor, for many of us a shot like that would be a signal for reducing the mangle-ribbick to the nothingness to which the electron has been consigned. A 'close approach,' as we understand it, puts the ball on the lip of the cup that sometimes cheers but mostly jeers. Certainly an approach that does not even get to the green but mangles miserably in the fairway can be, and has been, called a lot of things, but never, until Prof. Eddington spoke, was it called close.

It is our notion that the erudite professor would do well to swear off golf and devote himself exclusively to the murderous pastime of exterminating the electrons and the atoms, all the suns, moons and planets and the "roar of the milky way."

THAT MEETING AT MIAMI BEACH.

A sunny postscript to the presidential campaign was written yesterday when Gov. Smith, in response to Mr. Hoover's proclaimed readiness to see him, rode through the palm-lined avenues of Miami Beach for an informal call on the President-elect. It was 11 a. m., an early hour for Al—indeed, he had come away without his breakfast—when his car drove up to the Penney home and he emerged, bedight in morning coat and the emblematic brown derby. We may be sure there was nothing stiff or pompous in the greetings that followed. With that easy cordiality so characteristic of him, Smith greeted Hoover as "Mr. President" and proceeded to regale him with amusing incidents of the campaign. They chatted for nearly half an hour and both seemed to enjoy the incident thoroughly.

Perhaps the meeting had no more significance than a mere observance of the amenities occasioned by the accidental presence of the two men in the same city. But we are inclined to think it a little more important than that. Few campaigns in our history have been so bitterly fought as the last one or have aroused so much feeling. It is true the American people are usually quick to accept the verdict of a clear majority of voters; nevertheless, a residue of resentment and rancor must be expected. No doubt both Smith and Hoover had this in mind in arranging for a friendly encounter. Differing vitally on fundamental issues, widely apart in every detail of training, tradition and outlook, they yet are happy to observe a social rite and to furnish a gracious example for their followers.

GOV. CAULFIELD'S GOOD SERVICE.

"I think the public should have some protection from gangsters and killers," said Gov. Caulfield after refusing to commute the death sentences of Thomas Lowry and Leonard Yeager. The Governor explained that nothing in the way of evidence had been presented to him which offered sufficient reason for him to interfere with the action of the courts.

The question decided by the Governor had no relation to the question of whether hanging or life imprisonment should be the method of punishment, but merely whether the men had had fair trials and there was any reason for executive interference—whether the law should be enforced.

Gov. Caulfield's decision touches the core of the question of protecting the public from murderous criminals. When punishment of these criminals after fair trial is eased or diminished and there is a prospect of escape from punishment or diminution of sentences, criminals are encouraged to commit crime. When punishment inflicted by the courts after due process of law is carried out unflinchingly, criminals are discouraged. They realize that they will have to suffer the consequences of their crimes.

The ease with which criminals escape punishment is one of the principal causes of criminality. Gov. Caulfield is doing good service for the people when he withholds interference with the courts to favor criminals.

THE AIRPORT ROW.

Maj. Lambert's letter of resignation as chairman of the Technical Committee of the Municipal Airport makes it clear that the city administration and the committee have not been working in harmony. For example:

First, the $100,000 plan for lighting the field, prepared by the city lighting engineer, Mr. Heath, is disapproved by the Technical Committee, which contends that this work can be done adequately for $40,000, with a better system.

Second, the cross-cross plan of runways, prepared by city engineers, will, in the judgment of the Technical Committee, increase the liability of collision. It is stated that a runway plan submitted by the Technical Committee was disregarded by the city engineers.

Finally, Mr. Lambert insists that the city ought to employ an airport engineer of recognized standing to design and direct the whole job. He points out the technical character of the work in convincing detail and declares that "only a technically qualified expert" is competent to do the work. He also says that other cities have made costly mistakes in their airport construction which St. Louis can, and should, avoid.

Altogether, Mr. Lambert justifies his action. He has put the city administration on the defensive. His lighting engineer specialized in aeronautics? If not, why should the city administration approve his plan calling for an expenditure of $100,000 when the Technical Committee says $40,000 is sufficient? Have our city engineers who drew the runways plan any special knowledge of airport requirements and appointments? If they have not, and if men of special training, like the members of the Technical Committee, condemn the plan as dangerous, isn't the city administration taking a long chance in accepting the work of untrained engineers and rejecting the plan of specialists?

The city administration in this project is represented by Director Salisbury of the Department of Public Welfare, who has asked Mr. Lambert to withdraw his resignation. We hope he will. But the necessity for the resignation should never have arisen. It never would have, apparently, if Mr. Salisbury had properly cooperated with the Technical Committee which, made up of men who have specialized in aeronautics, was created to give the city administration the benefit of their experience and training. Mr. Lambert is contending for an airport, competently designed and equipped, without waste or extravagance. He wants efficiency and economy. That is what the people of St. Louis want.

LEXICON HUMOR.

The man who sets out to read the dictionary or encyclopedia may be a dull and plodding fellow, but his work is not without reward, as will appear presently. Hold your snickers. Gibe not at him. Ever since the gaudy Dr. Johnson defined oats as what an Englishman feeds to his horse, a Scotchman to his children, there has been and will continue to be something to laugh at in the lexicons.

For example, this from the Americana article on Voltaire, one of the greatest wits of all time: "Voltaire also attempted comedy, but he seems to have been deficient in a sense of humor."

And again, from the same source, in a different section: "Like chiropractic science—which was developed by nonscientific men until the scientific had to take it up and acknowledge its many virtues—phrenology contains truths that should not be overlooked."

An ass, Webster tells us, is a quadrupedal beast of burden, slow-moving and patient. Possibly sometimes asses contribute to learned publications.

GIFTS AND LOVE OFFERINGS.

It will have to be admitted, in the light of disclosures at the trial of Arlie Boswell of Williamson County, Ill., for conniving at evasions of the law, that in such matters there is a lack of finesse in his section. Out in California they do these things better, giving to devious transactions a redeeming touch of artistry and friendship. In the California lexicon there is no such word as bribe. Gifts and love offerings, yes. But no bribes.

Asa Keyes, former District Attorney of Los Angeles, has made that plain in his trial on the charge of accepting bribes to influence his action in criminal cases that he was supposed to prosecute with an eye single to convicting the guilty. It appears from the testimony that persons Mr. Keyes was prosecuting presented to him and his family things of value, automobiles and the like, after which the accused persons were acquitted. The inference sought to be established is that the prosecutor's zeal was influenced by things like that. It looks bad, but Mr. Keyes saves the situation by explaining that the automobiles and other things were simply gifts.

And Almee Semple McPherson, expounder of the four-square gospel, confronted with a $2500 check which she handed to Superior Judge Carlos Hardy when her kidnapping story was under investigation, says why yes, she did hand the Judge $2500, but it was a love offering, a token of her appreciation of his help in the cause.

What were needed in the Williamson County case were gifts and love offerings, but nobody thought of it, and so Mr. Boswell and his friends were convicted.

"$24,000,000 MORE!"

Foreign Policy and Cruiser Folly

New York weekly regards the arguments for the Fifteen-Cruiser Bill as childish; it points out that no such thing as parity between the navies of two nations is humanly possible; since we have no definite foreign policy, it thinks, it is idle to talk of our needs for ships.

From The Nation

THE childishness of the arguments for the Fifteen-Cruiser bill continues astounding. Thus, Senator Swanson is for absolute equality in fleet power because that would "eliminate mutual apprehension" and prevent naval competition, which "will inevitably lead to friction, unrest and apprehension." Apparently equality is not competition. Also it would seem as if the noble Senator's ideal is for the Admiralty and the Navy Department to build identically every year—an equal number of destroyers, submarines, cruisers, and battleships. That is, of course, not equality, but unity. At the same time he declared that we must build these ships to make clear to Great Britain "the wisdom of entering into a pact for naval equality" and as an "object lesson" to Great Britain not to attempt naval superiority. The New York World—shades of Joseph Pulitzer!—again falls editorially for the idea that we must build these cruisers as a threat. If there is to be an international conference, it says, we must enter the conference with enough ships laid down, appropriated for and authorized to convince the naval authorities abroad that limitation is necessary and desirable. . . . The conclusion is unfortunate, but it is, we fear, inescapable, that the influence which the United States can hope to exert in arranging an international agreement is very largely dependent upon its strength as a naval power. The passage of the cruiser bill will make such agreement far more likely.

Then we have the passionate sister of Theodore Roosevelt crying out in a public meeting that as England has the right to build ships the United States must have it too.

All of which seems to indicate that reasoning powers have disappeared from America. We must build ships because England builds ships. Well, why stop at England? It is as logical to set up the chant: "Paragun builds ships; we must build ships." "Holland builds ships; the United States must build ships." There is no logic and no sense in it. It is a sort of fetishism; of incantation by blind verities; the latest proof that if you hear a thing often enough you believe it without stopping to inquire. In the case of Senator Swanson it is obvious not only that words no longer have their ordinary meanings, but that no adequate inquiry has accompanied the statements that he makes. Has he never heard that Holland and Norway have huge merchant fleets and no navies? Take this question of parity or equality. People who demand it talk as if the mere number of ships made parity. Every expert knows that two fleets may have precisely the same number of vessels, and yet one may be vastly inferior to the other. For there are such things as morale, as discipline, as commanders, as gunnery efficiency, as brains, not to mention geographical factors, all these may be more vital by far than parity. The English for generations, you centuries, went on the theory that one English ship was the equal of two French vessels of equal caliber, and in engagement after engagement they proved that they were right. Dewey was much worried because of the numerical size of the Spanish fleet at Manila Bay; events showed that he could have won the battle if he had had the Olympia alone. Moreover, as we pointed out the other day, England can offset parity in 24 hours by renewing her former offensive and defensive alliance with Japan, and then adding France if need be. Would our Swansons still urge parity? Of course not. That would be insanity. Then why not sit down and work out the problem on a sane statesmanlike basis, as suggested by Ramsay MacDonald?

Some day it may occur to our Big-Navy men that vastly more important than fleet parity is the question of the resources behind the fleet. There we are so superior to England that no parity is possible. Again, does Senator Swanson know that the United States Navy has today about 100 more destroyers than has the British Navy? What a howl would go up if the Admiralty were to announce tomorrow that they were going to build a hundred more destroyers within three years! All talk of parity would disappear; it would be a threat to our safety, a real armament race, etc., etc. As for the World's argument and Mr. Swanson's that we must build more cruisers in order to have something to negotiate with at the conference table, that not only throws overboard all the tremendous moral force and power of the United States of which the World boasted so constantly when its hero, Woodrow Wilson, was in office, but it assumes that this adding of more cards to the American hand would go unnoticed until the conference table was reached. At that time, of course, some other nation could flash an announcement that it was laying down 20 or 25 cruisers.

We submit that all of this is folly; that any building of a navy, if one is needed—which we deny—must be predicated upon our foreign policy if the fleet is to be of any value from the point of view of efficiency, tactics and strategy. We have no definite foreign policy, but until we do it is idle to talk of our need for ships. For instance, President Coolidge keeps talking about our never waging anything but defensive wars; then why talk about trying to protect our commerce in the Indian Ocean, or the Pacific? It took more than 30 Allied vessels to run down a single German cruiser in the Indian Ocean, the Emden. Has Senator Swanson ever really sat down and figured out how many cruisers it would take to protect our commerce, and the relation of coal-stations, docks, bases, etc., to the problem? Of course, he has not. If there were just one naval expert with common sense in the Senate, like Commander Kenworthy or Commander Wedgwood of the British Parliament, he could tear to pieces this proposal on a purely professional basis, without even raising the question of statesmanship, or foreign policy, or national objectives, or international rivalry, or pacifism. At every point the cruiser bill is indefensible, but most unworthy of all is the contention that we have no means of having the world toward naval disarmament save the threat of 15 more cruisers. As Americans we indignantly protest at this derogation of the United States, this throwing away of all her potential moral leadership in the movement to lead the way without fear toward a disarmed world.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

OFFHAND, one would think the signing by the President of a treaty that purposes to abolish war throughout the world would be an occasion where dignity and solemnity hold full sway.

It is exceedingly difficult to create an atmosphere in keeping with the importance of an occasion these days when movie cameramen and "still" photographers grin and click away at a scene bathed in a painful calcium light.

This was the setting when the President signed the Kellogg pact.

MUCH was written and said about the Kellogg pact was delayed in the Senate. It is not generally known, however, that it was also held up at the White House—for a few moments.

The President was seated with gold-poled. Directly in front was the chief of cameramen. Just as the massive pen moved downward in the hands of the chief executive a voice cried out:

"Just a minute, Mr. President! Just a minute, please!"

It was a movie photographer who had not quite focused his camera in the proper manner. Mr. Coolidge paused until he was sure everyone was ready.

Odd, isn't it?—a great state document being held up until a photographer is ready?

Mr. Coolidge always is willing to oblige the photographers whenever he can. Frequently he has done more than pause; that the boys might get a good picture of his doings on various occasions.

At Rapville Island he went so far as to ride an ox cart for them. To accommodate a talkie cameraman he conversed with his host while aboard the ox cart as he talked Howard Coffin that such a far cry contrary to the policy of his administration. And it was a good show.

THE photographers stop at nothing to get the picture. An example was afforded at the executive offices the other day.

The Minister of a small European country had called with a delegation of his countrymen. They had brought with them a beautiful crystal glass bowl, a product of their native land, as a gift to Mr. Coolidge.

The delegation was ready to meet the President before the photographers surrounded them. A picture before the presentation was impossible. And then his cause straight to the Minister. Would his excellency bring the bowl out after he had given it to the President?

The Minister demurred. He doubted the wisdom of such procedure. Well, the bowl was presented the President. The picture was taken afterwards. And the bowl was to be seen in a prominent place.

Plutarchian Method

MODERN PLUTARCH—By John Cournos. (Bobbs-Merrill.)

As the title indicates, this collection of short studies of ancient and modern characters is a study in the method used by Plutarch, the first great biographer, in his "Parallel Lives," over 1800 years ago. In these enduring biographies, Plutarch supplemented his studies of Greek and Roman heroes with comparisons which pointed out the significant distinguishing characteristics of each.

This comparative treatment is as interesting today as it was in Plutarch's time. But, as the present author admits, it is also somewhat precarious and uncertain. For the use of modern communication has helped to break down national barriers, and increased facilities for the dissemination of knowledge and ideas has tended to make racial characteristics less sharply defined. But Cournos treats lightly and takes no liberties. His conclusions and distinctions are based on sound reasoning.

The sketches themselves concern a group of fascinating personalities—characters which should provide rich dramatic material for some Shakespeare of the future. Mark Twain and Anatole France, George Eliot and George Sand, Balzac, Parnell and Lassalle, John Brown and Garibaldi—these are some of the 29 great authors, lovers, liberators and rebels portrayed.

Cournos has a sympathetic understanding of the personalities he describes. He not only perceives their greatness, but the enthralling spark which enabled them to tower above the men and women of their day, but he also sees their weaknesses, their all too human failings. These are always considered in his estimate of a character, but they are never magnified, as is the tendency of so many contemporary biographers. The result is a series of portraits which have the balance of integrity.

A varied and vivid treatment is employed in these sketches. In some cases a narrative form is used, and the significant factors in a life are traced from beginning to end. Again some one episode which reveals the subject's essential characteristics is dramatized in story form. Whatever the manner of telling, the interest is consistently maintained.

His remarkable that sketches as short as these should contain such

'BOOM BOOM' AS SEEN BY NEW YORK CRITICS

Musical Comedy Adapted From the French by Mrs. Mitchell, Former St. Louisan.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Excerpts from reviews of "Boom Boom," written by Mrs. Fannie Todd Clark Mitchell, formerly of St. Louis, which had its first New York production under Shubert direction at the Casino Theater Monday night, follow:

HERALD TRIBUNE.—Although "Boom Boom" impressed the Herald Tribune's critic Monday night as anything but a blue-ribboner, it justified its existence in several ways. Chief among these was its success as a medium of the drama's hospitality to Capt. Fried and his men who, as guests of the producers, seemed to prefer it to the hardships of what Mr. Hope might call the briny deep.

They arrived in the middle of a love scene between Tony and Jean and were greeted by "The Star Spangled Banner," a standing ovation, a spotlight and loud applause. The captain and first officer Manning bore the ordeal with a gracious grin, in the best manner of their type, and then settled down to enjoy the play. "Boom Boom" appeared to please them as, indeed, it did numerous others.

The hefty Frank McIntyre, surrounded by a horde of more or less beautiful actresses, was the comic soul of the celebration. Impersonating a fat and elderly New Yorker of low disposition, he had married his son's sweetheart in the course of one of his "binges," and thereafter he suffered all the buffoon miseries known to the capricious. "Boom Boom" it should be said, is a bravado version by Fanny Todd Mitchell of Louis Verneuil's "Mlle. La Mare." Its rudimentary theme was treated at the Casino Monday evening with much of the delicacy habitual to Broadway, and even the most sensitive of the first nighters were not affronted by its audacities.

While it is one of the lesser contestants of the light-heavyweight operas, it was received with the customary cheers and salutations.

"Born With a Silver Flask."—Miss Jeanette MacDonald, a fair, shapely and musical soprano, was the lady who eventually married the stepson, a middle-aged baritone, after there had been dramatic scenes on the S. S. Argentina, in the roof garden of Worthington Smith's New York penthouse, and at Snuggly Inn, a gay rendezvous on the Albany Post road. She was described as "born on Park avenue with a silver flask in her mouth."

Which reminds of another joke in "Boom Boom." McIntyre was telling someone or other that he had been in a hospital for three months "Pretty sick," said his friend, sympathetically. "No," replied Mr. McIntyre, "pretty nurse." Werner Janssen's harmonies were moderately insidious and the best of them seemed to be a love song called "What Could I Do?"

The café scene in "Boom Boom," not unfamiliar to musical comedy, is enlivened by the shaggy antics of Harry Welsh as a head waiter. His pranks as a noisy speaker are of the forcible kind that make you laugh at them, apologetically or with full approval, as the case may be. Shall anything be said in praise or in disparagement of the ardent Miss Ethel Kelly, who, in her mad exertions to jolt the drama lovers, employs excesses of a kind that might be termed unpretty? Not at this moment.

The ballet girls dance very well, even if they are a little dry in looks; and what they lack in beauty is made up by Miss MacDonald and by Miss Marcella Swann, who acts, with humorous precision, a romantic uptown gold-digger. Perhaps it should be explained that the title, "Boom Boom," is a synonym for whoopee and that Mr. McIntyre refreshes the limping glowery of dissipation by describing his adventures with sex and alcohol as "making boom boom."

"Not So Enlivening."—TIMES—"Boom Boom" struggles feverishly without accomplishing much in the way of entertainment. Werner Janssen, who has the gift of melody, has composed a serviceable, if occasionally reminiscent score worthy, it seems, of better singing than it receives, for Miss MacDonald has the only enjoyable voice in the cast. The rhymes are of the "wiggie her torso only more so" variety. Although the direction has kept the production moving at the customary speed, making "Boom Boom" is not so enlivening a sport as the devil-may-care title had led the expectant playgoer to suppose.

WORLD.—There is something faintly depressing in a farce for a theater with the idea of seriously considering something called "Boom Boom." It is the same sense of sheepish chagrin as assails you at the prospect of reporting "Upsa-Daisy" or "Well, Well, Well," and leads to melancholy reflections on the fact that as musical comedies grow more and more elaborate, their titles become more and more idiotic. In all justice, it is only fair to report that "Boom Boom" isn't half as bad as its name.

This almost acutely faint praise doesn't alter the fact that the new Shubert show is a thoroughly stereotyped product made from the familiar pattern of an adapted French farce.

DAILY NEWS—"Boom Boom" is a lively Shubert opus, decorated with the customary flashes of color, punctuated with the newer grasshopper dances and made

Day by Day in Paris

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, Jan. 30.—PARIS is a paradise for the prowler. One may turn off from a turbulent, roaring boulevard and its flashy throngs into a narrow, winding and desolate street, to see perhaps only a lone figure, fantastically sketching a wisp of cloud.

This morning with my dog I forth early. Paris was going—flourishing is a better term—to work. The corrugated shutter fronts of the shops had been raised. Buses bulged with chattering loads. Bearded Frenchmen with hand-bar lurches were peddling madly. Teamsters screamed, their dogs—every teamster has his dog—yipped. And street cries blew their horns.

Nothing is quite so vibrant as an early Paris morning. It has a hum. Crossing over to the Left Bank I strode—once never walks briskly—along the Quai beyond the Chamber of Deputies and toward the Ile de la Cité—the original site of Paris. In one of the esplanades a traveling circus was beginning its day.

A "strong man" in tattered tight-fitting leathers was braving the chill to lift weights for a sleepy-eyed handful. A wheezy carousel at this hour had two customers and a few drivers had deserted two-wheeled carts to test their luck at a huge spinning gambling wheel. It was all as depressing as the chilly mist.

Further along were the famous Halles des Halles with their enormous casks of wine and pungent soured odors. Ponderous slow-slugs drawn by teams of six and eight horses, were being loaded for a part of the day's whoopee-water consumption. On the Seine, the poor were doing their washing in municipal laundry carts.

Turning into a little side street that proved a blind alley, I dropped into a chair at a sidewalk table. A bar woman finally came out of the dinky depths scowling. And learning my desire was café au lait, tripled the scowl. I imagine the same effect could be had ordering a hot dog at the Ritz.

Everywhere I walked I needed, some knitting as they strolled. Men only idled. Women symbolized the industry of France in poorer sections. The promenade finally took me past an infamous café where waitresses wait on trade au naturel. I hurried by with eyes cast demurely down, blushing like everything.

ONE of the omnipresent figures in the region of the Place Vendôme, by fat and lean streaks of comedy no coarser than should be expected by any one who knows his musical comedy books these days. Fairly modest on occasion, too.

A good Casino average. "Boom Boom." "What Could I Do?" is a salable song.

DAILY MIRROR.—The galaxy of authors, lyricists and composers, heralded by the Messrs. Shubert to fashion their latest musical comedy didn't fall down on the job and "Boom Boom" went over with a bang at the Casino Theater before a first night audience.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR JOHN MAX WULFING

Washington University and German Government Pay Honor to Classical Enthusiast.

The funeral of John Max Wulffing, wholesale grocer and classical enthusiast, was held this afternoon at the Church of the Unity, 5015 Waterman avenue. For 25 years, up to 1927, Mr. Wulffing was chairman of the board of trustees of this church. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. George R. Dodson, conducted the funeral.

Washington University, to which Mr. Wulffing gave his large collection of Greek and Roman coins, was represented at the funeral, as was the German Government. Mr. Wulffing was head of the St. Louis Society of the Archaeological Institute of America. He was also the director, in St. Louis, of post-war movements for the relief of German orphans, and of the scholars and advanced students of that country. Mastoiditis caused his death, which followed an operation. He was 69 years old, and survived by Mrs. Wulffing and three married daughters.

Pallbearers were Charles Depew, Thomas F. Duncan, Frederick Wiperman, J. R. Eakin, J. W. Davis and William E. Wittig. The honorary pallbearers were Dr. George Ahrens, German Consul, Charles Nagel, vice president of Washington University Corporation; Chancellor Throop and Prof. F. W. Shipley of the University; George Boswell, August E. Brooker, Joseph W. Bray, George O. Carpenter, George O. Carpenter Jr., Walter G. Clark, Charles Collins, William M. ## SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

An interesting trip is being taken by Mrs. Nell A. McKim, 5327 Waterman avenue, and Mrs. Charles N. Whitehead of Hotel Chase, who are spending several months abroad. They were in Bombay, India, for New Year's day and part of that week, after taking the boat from Marseilles. They plan to go to China and Japan, and while there will visit Dr. Anne Walter Fearn, a sister of Mrs. Oscar Johnson, 38 Portland place, who has a hospital in China. Mrs. McKim and Mrs. Whitehead will be in London for April. They may stay in Europe next summer.

Miss Genevieve Padberg, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis K. Padberg, 3819 South Grand boulevard, will become the bride of Harold Henry Schulz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Schulz, 3835 West Pine boulevard, this evening. The wedding will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Padberg and will be followed by a reception for 500 guests.

The marriage service will be read by the Rev. John Lyons of St. Paul's Catholic Church, assisted by Rev. John Lynch of St. Thomas Church and the Rev. Theodore Schute of Chicago.

The home will be decorated in smilax and pink roses.

An altar has been erected in the living room before a mirror reaching from floor to ceiling. The altar will be decorated with Easter lilies. The bridal table will be lighted by tapers in silver candelabra.

The bride will be attended by Miss Nancy Boyd, maid of honor; Miss Rosemary Craig, Miss Mary Purcell, Miss Marguerite Schulz, Miss Viola Brecher, and Miss Mary Valet of New Orleans, bridesmaids. Harriett Ann Padberg and Marie Tess McLennan, cousins of the bride, will be flower girls.

Mr. Schulz will have as best man Joseph Hausladen, Jerome and Louis Padberg, brothers of the bride, and Dr. Claude Zwart, Edward and Frank Barnidge will be groomsmen.

The bride will be attired in a colonial gown of white satin with a Queen Anne collar of rose point lace which was worn by her mother when a bride. The full skirt, quite short in front and touching the floor at the back has a short train of tulle at the left side caught with orange blossoms. Her court train of satin is cut to V at the shoulder, outlined in rose point, and her tulle veil will fall from a cap of duchess lace once worn by her grandmother, the late Mrs. John Ring.

She will carry brides' roses and lilies of the valley and her only jewelry will be a diamond pin, the gift of the bridegroom.

Her bridesmaids will wear gowns of taffeta in pastel shades, made with sleeveless tight-fitting bodices and bouffant skirts with deep hems of tulle. They will wear sand slippers tinted to match their dresses, ornamented with rhinestone buckles, the gifts of the bride. Their flowers will be briar cliff roses.

The maid of honor will wear yellow taffeta and will carry yellow roses.

Miss Padberg is a graduate of Sacred Heart Convent, Maryville. Mr. Schulz was graduated from Washington University.

Following the honeymoon they will live at 7114 Glimmer avenue. Among the out-of-town guests here for the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. William Moore of Kansas City and Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Malley of Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Taylor Spink of Clayton, have recently returned from Havana after visiting in Florida, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Bradely of Louisville, Ky., who have a winter home at Miami Beach.

Mrs. P. L. DuBois, 5223 Page boulevard, departed yesterday for Bilori and Guilford, Miss., to spend about six weeks.

COLLEGE BOY BLAMES CHUM FOR MURDER

R. G. Gallogly on Stand Says Harsh Alone Killed Drug Clerk in Holdup.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 29.—Jack Mahoney, a college mate of Richard G. Gallogly, testified at the latter's trial for murder here today that he drove the automobile in which Gallogly and George R. Harsh went to and left the scene of an attempted holdup in which a drug store clerk was slain.

He said he met them on the campus of Oglethorpe University earlier in the evening and they asked him to go with them "to some dates." Harsh, who was Mahoney's roommate, recently was convicted and sentenced to death for the same crime.

Arriving in the vicinity of the drug store Harsh and Gallogly alighted from the machine and after asking him to drive around the block and pick them up again started across the street, Mahoney testified. After he turned and closed the block, he said, his two classmates hailed the car at a corner near the drug store, jumped in and directed him to "go on, drive and hurry up."

Mahoney said he asked where the "dates" were and was told by Gallogly, "Oh, we just pulled a holdup down there. George thinks he killed two men."

Gallogly took the stand and read a statement saying that he had nothing to do with the attempted holdup and subsequent killing of the drug store clerk. The defense then unexpectedly rested.

PRISON TERM CUT IN TWO, CONVICT HAS FIVE CHILDREN
Judge Hartmann Reduces Clarence Collier's Sentence to Year on Pica of Wife.

A two-year prison sentence was cut in half by Circuit Judge Hartmann today because he felt the longer sentence would work a hardship on the prisoner's five children, all of whom are less than 12 years old.

Clarence Collier pleaded guilty, Jan. 2, of attempted robbery. After he was sentenced, his wife, Mrs. Edna Collier, 25214 Cora avenue, wrote to Judge Hartmann, stating that she and the five children would become objects of charity while Collier was in prison. An investigation substantiated her statements, and disclosed that Collier was in poor health.

Judge Hartmann changed the sentence to one year in the city workhouse, and made the sentence effective last Nov. 1, the approximate date of Collier's arrest. Collier will receive medical treatment at the workhouse.

Collier and another man robbed a drug store at 827 North Taylor avenue of $275 last June 27. Collier was allowed to plead guilty to the attempted robbery charge because the evidence against him was weak.

Walter McGee, 28, Falls Into the Mississippi; Ice Prevents Rescue.

Walter McGee, 28 years old, an iron worker, employed on the new Chain of Rocks Bridge, which is being built across the Mississippi River at the Chain of Rocks, was drowned shortly before noon today when he lost his balance while working on a pier and fell into the icy water.

McGee, weighted down by heavy clothing and a belt containing tools, struck out for a boat, which is kept in the river for such an emergency, but sank after swimming about 200 feet. The boat was some distance from the point where McGee fell and the man in charge of it was prevented from reaching McGee quickly by ice in the river. McGee's body was not recovered. His parents reside at De Soto, Mo.

Warrant Issued for Wilburn Nanny, 18, in Robbery of Confectioner's Daughters.

A warrant charging first degree robbery was issued today against Wilburn Nanny, 18 years old, a student, 1101 Lindenwood place, who was arrested yesterday and identified as a participant in a $1500 holdup.

The money belonged to Mrs. Ida Shear, who conducts a confectionery at 4173 Folsom avenue, and was to be used for cashing pay checks. Her daughters, Laura, 19, and Estelle, 12, were bringing the money from the Shaw Bank, Dec. 15, when they were held up near the store by two men who took the money and drove away. The sisters identified Nanny as the driver of the car. He denies the charge.

Indictments charging manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident were returned by the grand jury yesterday against Sylvester Robinson, ex-convict and younger brother of "Chippy" Robinson, Egan gangster now in Atlanta penitentiary.

Robinson was named as the intoxicated driver of an automobile which killed Simon A. Meyer, 5744 Kingsbury avenue, and Mrs. Julia Mann, 6024 Washington avenue, at Lindell boulevard and Vandeventer avenue, March 3, last. He was arrested in Detroit and returned to St. Louis last month.

ORCHESTRA CONDUCTOR FOCH DEMANDS $50,000 OF EX-WIFE

Claims Custody of Child Also in Reply to Former Consuelo Flowerston's Suit.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Dirk Foch, Dutch orchestra conductor, in answer to the divorce petition of the former Consuelo Flowerston, Polles actress, demanded $50,000 damages. Her attorneys filed a motion to strike out this claim.

The composer obtained a divorce in Holland in 1926 and custody of his daughter, who now is 17th her mother. Mrs. Foch filed suit for divorce here early last year questioning the validity of the Dutch decree. She also maintained that Foch's subsequent marriage to Mrs. Editha Simonds was void and named her as co-respondent.

The conductor in his reply asks that Miss Flowerston's complaint be dismissed, that custody of the child be given him, charging that his former wife obtained possession of their daughter in Vienna through fraud. His demand for $50,000 damages is to cover the trouble and expense he was put to in coming to this country to answer her suit.

Try This Physician's Harmless, Scientific System of Fat Reduction

After years of investigation and experiment, a prominent physician has produced a really scientific and perfectly harmless system for reducing fat with absolute safety to health and without causing any wrinkles or pouchy, sagging skin. He has prescribed this treatment, known as The Delgado System, in his private practice with the utmost success in hundreds of cases, both of men and women, many of whom had tried other methods without success and the results have been astonishing.

You Cannot Remain Fat if You Use the Delgado System

You don't have to tire yourself exercising, or go hungry, or wear special garments of any kind to get rid of fat by this system. The doctor explains it as a "three-fold" treatment which restores normal activity to certain GLANDS, regulates the liver, and causes the bowels to work properly so that fatty tissues are absorbed and eliminated. Thus you gain in strength and vitality as you lose in weight. The whole process is a perfectly natural one, as the treatment takes into account the physiological changes which occur in normal weight reduction and is scientifically correct. You can regulate the reduction as you choose. Lose as much or as little as you desire.

FREE Test Treatment, Consultation, Examination and Advice. We make this liberal free trial offer because we want to show you that at last a harmless and scientific treatment has been discovered for reducing fat by which you can regain firm muscles, a slender, graceful form and enjoy better health. Call today while this free test offer holds good.

"COMPLETELY MOTORIZED"

... thanks to the
USED CAR

"I HAVE a wife, a daughter and a son," a business man writes, "and each of us needed a car. To buy four new cars was out of the question for me, but thanks to the present-day bargains in used cars, my family has been completely motorized at surprisingly small expense."

A rather unusual family, but the idea is not new. Very many American families in all circumstances have found in the used car an economical means of enjoying the convenience of two- and three-car ownership. For a used car is unused transportation which may be enjoyed by the next owner at an attractive price.

Used cars are opportunities

A good automobile is built to stand years of use. It will provide many thousands of miles of transportation. But only occasionally are all its years and all its mileage used up by one owner.

The cars which General Motors dealers are taking in trade offer great opportunities to buy unused transportation at low cost. The convenience of the GMAC Plan of Payment is available.

DENIS DRY RAID PROTECTION

Managing Director of Dallas Hotel
Replies to Senate Testimony.
By the Associated Press.
DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 30.—Replying to testimony before a Senate investigating committee at Washington, Otto Schubert, managing director of the Adolphus Hotel here, denied that the hotel ever had received protection from dry raiders.

"We deny emphatically that we have asked or received protection from dry raiders," Schubert said.
"We are making every endeavor at all times to comply with the law and the Federal prohibition officers have had and will have our fullest co-operation."

U. S. AGENT SAYS
HE LISTENED IN ON OHIO DRY PLOT

Testifies He Was There
When Ohio Treasurer Called at Home of Assistant Prohibition Chief.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30.—Adolph Gruber, Cincinnati attorney, named as a co-conspirator with State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley in the alleged Cincinnati brewery protection plot, testified today at Buck-ley's trial in the Federal court on attempted bribery and conspiracy charges that Buckley told him that he expected "to get a new house" out of the protection of the breweries.

Gruber testified that he and John L. Schrimper, who was indicted jointly with Buckley, and the State Treasurer had dinner in Columbus, Oct. 20, and that Buckley told them that the acting assistant prohibition administrator,
John F. Eckhart, would send them tips on proposed inspections. He testified that Buckley asked now much money was paid for protection and said he understood it was $5 a half barrel. Then he inquired, Gruber testified, if the Cincinnati breweries were making good beer and said, "They'd better get busy because I want a new house out of this."

Gruber testified that on Oct. 10
he called Joseph Sperber, Cincinnati brewmaster, and told him to send $1500 as fees and expenses for his work in the int. est of the Jackson Brewing Co. He said that Sperber sent the money, that he gave $500 to Schrimper and that Schrimper went to Columbus. The next day, he said, Schrimper called him on the phone from a hotel room in Columbus and said, "Everything's hunky-dory." Gruber said that Schrimper told him Buckley was in the hotel room at the time.

Further details of how Government agents tried to lead Buckley into disclosing his alleged efforts to buy information from Eckhart were given by witnesses.
Charles L. Hurlburt, Federal prohibition agent, testified that he was stationed on the stairway of the Eckhart's home the night that Buckley visited the Eckhart home.
The two devices were planted in the house that night and three persons recorded the conversation between Buckley and Eckhart, who has accused the State Treasurer of attempting to bribe him with money and influence to furnish tips on probable raids on Cincinnati breweries.

Hurlburt declared he heard Eckhart ask Buckley where the $300 a month he was to receive was to come from and that he heard Buckley reply, "Well, you know John, we get so much for each keg."

Under cross-examination Hurlburt admitted that he did not prepare his notes on the conversation until after he had conferred with Eckhart who called his attention to specific parts of the conversation.

He also admitted that all the parts of the conversation dealing with beer or money were started by Eckhart and that conversations that Buckley started dealt for the most part with politics.

Federal Judge Benson W. Hough agreed to a suggestion by Haveth E. Mau, United States District Attorney in charge of the prosecution, that Charles A. Jones, secretary to Gov. Myers Cooper, be subpoenaed to testify concerning Eckhart's appointment as State prohibition director. Mau said that Jones' testimony would serve as well as the Governor's.

At the trial yesterday, Henry A.
Williams, one of Buckley's attorneys, obtained from Eckhart a contradiction of his testimony of Monday that Buckley had mentioned Gov. Cooper and United States Senator Simon D. Fess as "higher ups" who were interested in a raid on the Jackson Brewing Co., Cincinnati.

Guard Against "Flu"
With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning signs, rub on good old Musterole.
Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old fashioned mustard plaster without a blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling ensues and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children.

Heroic Conduct in Rescue in Keeping With Highest Traditions of Navy."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur sent letters of commendation yesterday to Capt. George Fried and Capt. Harry Manning, master and first officer of the Shipping Board liner America, for their rescue of the crew of the Italian steamship Florida.

"The seamanlike manner in which you laid your vessel to, lowered a lifeboat and effected the rescue at night in the teeth of a winter gale are worthy of especial note," the secretary's letter to Fried read.

"An equally successful rescue on your part in January, 1926, of the crew of the British steamer Antise, while you were master of the steamship President Roosevelt," gives eloquent evidence that these rescues are due to your skill as a master mariner and not to mere good fortune. The conduct of yourself and officers in meeting this emergency with such signal success is deserving of the highest praise.

"The navy is proud of your 28 years' service as an officer and enlisted man in the Navy and Naval Reserve. I take great pleasure in commending your heroic conduct as in keeping with the highest traditions of the Navy and the American Merchant Marine."

Wilbur's letter to Manning said in part:
"The department has noted with approval the highly seamanlike manner in which you handled the lifeboat at night in the heavy seas of a winter gale and effected the rescue of all survivors. I take pleasure in commending your heroic conduct on this occasion as in keeping with the highest traditions of the Navy and the American Merchant Marine."

Both men are Lieutenants in the Naval Reserve, and Secretary Wilbur informed them that copies of his letters were being filed in their official record in the Navy Department.

"If the couger in the 4th row will come to the stage door...there's a carton of Old Golds waiting for him!"

"Of course, I've never said the above! But how I've been tempted to, when a heavy bass whoop or a shrill soprano bark has drowned out my best wise-crack.

"But it isn't good cricket to publicly embarrass a couger. He isn't barking on purpose. He needs quiet, friendly counsel. He should, in confidence, be told to smoke OLD GOLDS.

"You'll enjoy the show better...and so will I...if we can just get this tip over to him. For, from my own experience with this smooth and throat-easy cigarette, I don't believe there's a cough in a capacity house-ful of them."

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By RUTH WAITE

Every woman with gray, faded or streaked hair is entitled to do something about it, for it is every woman's birthright to retain her youthfulness and charm as long as she can. When a woman mentions gray hair to me, I don't hesitate to advise the use of a restorer, and I recommend sage tea and sulphur.

A brew of common garden sage, when properly combined with sulphur, restores gray hair to its original color, lustre and beauty. So perfectly does it do the work that its use is undetectable. You may either prepare the mixture at home or buy it already prepared and ready for use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the prepared article, and it costs only 75c a bottle at druggists. Hence there's no need of your bothering to prepare the mixture yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. The very first application banishes the gray, and one or two more sees the hair beautifully restored to its original life and color. One would be surprised if she or he knew of the thousands who use this preparation.

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 5 times the cost. From any drug store, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times, but you can't prevent them, but you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Castoria is a vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has a little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

SLAIN GANGSTER HAD FRIENDS ON CHICAGO PAYROLL

Tony Lombardo Disclosed as Sponsor for $200-a-Month "Laborers" of Sanitary District.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Tony Lombardo, slain gang leader, was a political sponsor for several employees of the Chicago Sanitary District, records made public yesterday disclosed.

The completed payroll, as given out by the special grand jury investigators, disclosed the gangster had sponsored the appointment of several "laborers" at salaries of $200 a month.

The lists made public were for the sections "T to Z" and included the name of Floyd Thompson, Democratic nominee for the Governorship last fall, as sponsor for a water sampler at a salary of $175 a month. The name of Warren E. Van Dusen, former Mayor of Chillicothe, Ill., was on the payroll as an Illinois Valley investigator, salary $250 monthly, and showing he was sponsored by the late George E. Brennan, Democratic National Committeeman for Illinois.

Charles J. Thompson, Mayor of Springfield, Ill., was listed as an investigator at $200 a month, sponsored by Joseph P. Savage, former Assistant State's Attorney, whose law firm is counsel for Springfield.

Football Star on Payroll.
George Traffon, professional football star, was listed as a $200-a-month investigator.

Congressman A. J. Sabath, former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, former Corporation Counsel Francis Busch, former Coroner Oscar Wolff, Marshall Field & Co. and various labor organizations were listed as sponsors.

Thomas J. Donovan, Democratic State chairman of Joliet, successor to Brennan as National Committeeman, was listed as the sponsor of James J. Wise, Joliet, a tender drawing $200 monthly. Sylvester Wierschheim, Lockport, was listed as a foreman at $300 a month, sponsored by Donovan.

Donovan also sponsored Thomas White of Joliet and Joseph Ward of Lockport as $200 a month "laborers," the list showed.

Denies Getting 15 Checks.
The name of former State Representative Ralph H. Hoar of Elgin was brought before the grand jury when Harry N. Hitzman, an engineer, was called to testify concerning checks which he was said to have received from the corporation counsel's office. Hitzman said he did not know his name was on the payroll until he saw it in the paper and that he knew nothing of any of the 15 checks issued in his name.

UNITED PRESS STORY CALLED "SCANDALOUSLY INCORRECT"

Senator Ashurst Assails Report of Roll Call on Confirmation of Roy O. West.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The dispatch published in an number of newspapers recently under the copyright of the United Press and purporting to give the roll call of the Senate on the nomination of Roy O. West, Secretary of the Interior, it was described as "notoriously and scandalously incorrect" today by Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona. Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington, had called the attention of the Senate to the story by reading an article on the subject from the Louisville Times.

Another Senator, George of Georgia, said several days ago that he had been misrepresented in the purported roll call, which listed him as voting for West's confirmation.

HUDSON BOATS ICE LOCKED

Two Ships in No Great Danger.

Third Goes to Rescue.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Two Hudson River steamboats were locked in the ice off Cold Springs today and a third that went to their aid seemed in danger of sharing the plight of the other two. All boats belong to the Central Hudson Steamboat Co., which all winter operates a daily passenger and freight service between New York and Kingston, with stops at intermediate points.

The boats frozen in, with a handful of passengers aboard, are the Foughtospen and the Newburgh. The third boat is the Benjamin B. O'Dell. Frank R. Shaw, general agent of the steamboat company, said that the passengers were in no danger, were warm and well fed and were presumably enjoying their experience aside from natural irritation at being delayed.

MUSICIAN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Petition Filed Against William E. Hugo, Head of School.

A petition for divorce was filed by Mrs. Thelma Hugo, 4207 Gareche avenue, against William E. Hugo, president of the Hugo School of Music, in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday.

She charges general indignities and asks for custody of their 3-year-old daughter, Shirley Mae. They were married at Edwardsville, Jan. 13, 1923, and separated a few weeks ago.

BRITISH ARMY PLANE MISSING

Craft Has Been Rescuing Foreigners in Afghanistan.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 30.—A huge British air force troop carrying plane which has been engaged in rescuing foreigners from Afghanistan was missing today in the wild hill country north of the Khyber Pass.

The machine left Peshawar yesterday and returned to Rissalpur for minor adjustments. Then it started for Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, but did not arrive there.

J. R. PRICE, RED SOX SECRETARY, KILLS SELF

Slashes Throat at Fenway Park—Had Been in Ill Health.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Jan. 30.—James R. Price, 64 years old, secretary of the Boston Red Sox, killed himself on a runway at Fenway Park here yesterday by slashing his throat with a razor. Harry Mason, traveling secretary of the club, found him with the razor lying beside him. He was taken to the City Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

A letter was found in a pocket of Price's coat. It was addressed to his wife and explained the reasons for his act. The secretary was said to have been despondent over ill health for some time. Only 10 minutes before he killed himself, he complained to office associates that his heart bothered him.

The contents of the note to Mrs. Price were not given out. Price was sporting editor of the old New York Press for many years and a close friend of Ban Johnson, former president of the American League. He was long in charge of the distribution of American League world series tickets to club owners.

He became secretary of the Red Sox in 1924, when he resigned the presidency of the Newark Club of the International League. He was taken seriously ill three years ago, but was said to have completely recovered. He was a charter member of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Beauty Care right in your own Dishpan!

305 Famous Beauty Shops Find—

FAMOUS BEAUTY SCHOOLS also find Lux gentlest to the hands! The National Schools of Cosmeticians chose Lux for use in manicuring because Lux suds proved most soothing! "There is no better beauty aid than Lux in washing dishes," they add.

96 OUT OF EVERY 100 BRIDES questioned in 11 great cities are using Lux for their dishes, to keep their hands truly lovely! These modern girls mean to keep house without losing a bit of youthful charm. They find Lux means beauty care!

© 1929, by Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

"With all our experience we cannot distinguish between the hands that never wash dishes and hands that use Lux in the dishpan."

NOBODY has a better chance to compare women's hands than the experts in these famous beauty shops all over the country!

And they find that—

"Lux for dishes means hands that are truly lovely—soft and white as the hands of leisure."

Here is beauty care in your dishpan!

While you are washing dishes with gentle soothing Lux suds, your hands are gaining a half-hour or more of real beauty care!

The secret is this: Lux is different from other soaps! It cherishes the delicate oils of the skin, while so many soaps pitilessly dry these beauty oils—leave the skin roughened and red looking.

Here is the wisest, most inexpensive beauty care known—right in your own dishpan!

THESE FAMOUS HANDS of Miss Irma Wright, world champion amateur typist, delight big audiences with their speed! "Lux in my dishpan keeps my hands supple and white," she says—"solves my problem of being both champion and home-maker."

OF COURSE DISHES SHINE, glasses sparkle, with lovely Lux suds—instantly sparkling even in hard water! And Lux costs so little! The big package of Lux will wash 6 weeks' dishes for the average family—lovely hands for less than 1¢ a day!

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physically weak. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

“FLU”

Some Sensible Advice

1. Avoid crowds.
2. Avoid chilling.
3. Avoid fatigue.
4. Avoid anyone who is sneezing or coughing.
5. Take plenty of fluids.
6. Take plenty of nourishment.
7. Keep nasal passages clean.
8. Keep the bowels open.
9. If you catch cold do something about it at once! Remember, “Flu” usually develops from a cold. At the first sneeze, chill or headache, take Hill's Cascara-Quinine. Hill's stops a cold in one day because it does the four necessary things in one:
  1. Checks the cold germs.
  2. Allays the fever.
  3. Opens the bowels.
  4. Tones the system.That's the complete action a cold requires, and Hill's supplies it! Look for the red box—all druggists.

CLAIMS ON BANKRUPT DENTAL FIRM IN DISPUTE

Husband and Wife Say Concern Owes Them, but Books Are Otherwise.

Although books of the bankrupt Century Dental Laboratory Co., manufacturer of false teeth, formerly in the International Life Building, show that Dr. Arthur W. Erikson, president, and his wife, secretary-treasurer, are indebted to the company, both maintained the contrary at a hearing in Bankruptcy Court yesterday.

Mrs. Erikson said that, although the books, which she herself kept, show she owes the company $490, actually it owes her more than $1,000, representing her savings invested in the firm during 17 years of her employment as a stenographer for the National Druggist. She failed to record advances totaling this sum, according to her testimony, because the business “was just a family affair.”

She admitted her husband had overdrawn his account about $10,000 since 1920, although he was credited with a salary of $300 monthly.

Stock All in Family.

“We needed the money for personal and household expenses,” she explained. “There were only three stockholders, my husband, myself and my sister.”

Mrs. Erikson testified that not only had the company never shown a profit, but that she and her husband had suffered a loss of $12,000 through foreclosure of their equity in a $20,000 home at 7221 Country Club Court.

When the company entered voluntary bankruptcy last Nov. 10, after it had been unable to meet its rent, Mrs. Erikson said her husband persuaded friends to organize the Erikson-Century Dental Co., which immediately opened offices at 802 Chestnut street, across from the International Life Building, with Dr. Erikson as general manager. Her husband, she explained, owned no interest in the new concern, being merely an employee.

Not Sure as to Status.

Dr. Erikson was unable to say whether or not he owed the company $10,000.

“I believe the company owes me money,” he said. “I did a lot of personal work in making particularly difficult plates from which the company could make a set of teeth. I put all these earnings back into the company.”

When asked what these “personal earnings” amounted to, Dr. Erikson was unable to give a definite answer.

The company listed assets of $9,721, of which $8,555 was in open accounts, against liabilities of $20,888, of which $15,237 are unsecured. Its debts include wages due employees and accounts due dentists, which, it is understood, represent cash advances made to Dr. Erikson for work to be done in the future. Paul Hale is trustee of the estate.

TWO BANKS IN BALTIMORE PLAN $85,000,000 MERGER

Trust Company and National Depository to Unite Through Exchange of Stock.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 30.—An agreement has been reached for a merger of the Baltimore Trust Co. and the National Union Bank of Maryland, according to an announcement made by Donald Symington, president of the trust company.

The consolidation will create an $85,000,000 bank under the name of the Baltimore Trust Co., and will be accomplished by an exchange of stock. Waldo Newcomer will resign as chairman of the board of the trust company, according to the announcement, to become chairman of the executive committee of the combined institution.

Phillips Lee Goldsborough, United States Senator-elect and former Governor of Maryland, now president of the National Union Bank, will succeed Newcomer as chairman of the board. Symington will continue as president of the enlarged institution.

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There is a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascade the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't

Listerine kills 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds

Did you realize that Listerine was so powerful?

Hard to believe, isn't it, when you reflect how pleasant and safe Listerine is?

Yet in repeated tests employing the stubborn B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ, used by the Government to test antiseptics, full strength Listerine killed 200 millions in 15 seconds!

Now you can understand why you should use Listerine to check ordinary colds and sore throat—both caused by germs.

Keep a bottle handy and use it daily, especially after exposure to germ-laden crowds. It helps you ward off trouble. Write for our elaborate free book: “Personal Hygiene.”

SORE THROAT

Countless colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and lessen the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

“Milk of Magnesia” has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

ACCUSED PLAYWRIGHT FACES ARRAIGNMENT

W. P. Gibson Taken to New York, Charged With Raising Check in Shanghai.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—William Preston Gibson, the playwright, son of the late Senator Randall Lee Gibson of Louisiana, once prominent in New York society not only for his personal charm but for his four wives, who were all considered beautiful and had social standing, was arraigned and held for hearing March 20 by United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill yesterday on a charge of raising a draft in Shanghai.

The playwright, whose fourth wife divorced him recently, was placed in jail on landing in Vancouver last February, but was freed on instructions of the British Consul General in Shanghai.

Won Honor War.
The complaint against Gibson, who distinguished himself as an athlete and who, as a soldier came back from the World War with a Croix de Guerre, charges that he cashed a draft of the Riggs National Bank of Washington at the American Oriental Banking Corporation in Shanghai, raising the $200 to $2200. The draft was on R. L. M. White, widow of the late Supreme Court Justice White, the playwright's uncle.

Gibson, with his wife and son, lived in Shanghai for about five months in 1927, and on Jan. 5, 1928, left that city, saying they would be back Feb. 15. Instead he booked passage for Vancouver.

The playwright, who has since lived in Seattle and Montreal, is said to have borrowed money and to have incurred an indebtedness to a Shanghai hotel of $500, according to Federal authorities. Total losses to his friends and associates are estimated at about $7000.

Warrant Issued in Shanghai.
Gibson's arrest was demanded under a warrant issued by the United States Court in Shanghai, information concerning which was cabled to United States District Attorney Tuttle.

The divorce, which the fourth Mrs. William Preston Gibson obtained in Reno last December, was obtained on the ground of failure to support. Gibson's financial troubles, even when he married the granddaughter of H. H. Rogers, the standard oil millionaire, caused much gossip in New York social circles. In 1922, the Marine Magazine Co., of which Gibson had been treasurer, filed suit against him, charging him with converting $12,000 of the company's money to his private uses. The suit was settled out of court.

The divorce of the former Miss Beatrice Benjamin, his third wife, was followed by his marriage to Miss Evelyn Harris Spaulding of Haverhill, Mass.

MAN FOUND IN HIS ROOM
Landlord Declares That He Tried to Kill Himself Three Months Ago.

Charles Yates, 25 years old, was found shot three times, once in the chest and twice in the right thigh, at 513 Antelope street, where he rooms, last night. An automatic pistol and three empty cartridges were found in the room. Yates, who is at City Hospital in a serious condition, declined to make a statement. According to Mrs. Sarah Bartler, proprietor of the rooming house, she heard shots at 10:30 p. m., 16 minutes after Yates received a telegram from his sister stating that she would arrive at New York today. Mrs. Bartler says that Yates tried to end his life three months ago. His wife, from whom he is separated, lives at Webb City, Mo.

MISS ANNA NICHOLAS DIES
Prominent for 50 Years in Indiana Literary and Newspaper Circles.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 29.—Miss Anna Nicholas, literary editor of the Indianapolis Star, died here yesterday, following an operation. She was 79 years old.

For more than half a century Miss Nicholas was a prominent figure in literary and newspaper circles of Indiana. She was credited with being the guiding genius to many Hoosier authors and writers, who achieved nationwide fame. It was Miss Nicholas who gave the late James Whitcomb Riley the inspiration he needed when, as a timid youth from Greenfield, he came to her desk with his earliest poems.

WOMAN NOT ON ELIGIBLE LIST MADE DEPUTY CITY MARSHAL

Mrs. Nellie Wallace, 5129 Park avenue, has been appointed temporary Deputy City Marshal despite the fact that her name does not appear on the list of 26 persons who became eligible for the position through examination last February. Mrs. Wallace was a Deputy Sheriff under former Sheriff Shuler.

William Kirshick, chairman of the Efficiency Board, explained that City Marshal Duffy, who has the power to appoint deputies, requested authority to make the temporary appointment of Mrs. Wallace after he had noticed that the name of only one woman appeared on the eligible list. According to rules of the Efficiency Board, the appointing officer may select either a man or woman as deputy, the selection to be made from the three eligible persons having the highest standing. If there are not three names on the list, the appointing officer then may ask the board to appoint a temporary deputy. Inasmuch as the name of but one woman appeared on the list, the board made the appointment.

Marshal Duffy said he did not appoint Margaret Pyatt, 5517 South Grand boulevard, the woman whose name appeared on the list, because she was too young.

Mrs. M. Ashby Jones' Father Dies.
LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 29.—Charles S. Turner, 87 years old, retired farmer and father-in-law of Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of the Second Baptist Church in St. Louis, is dead of influenza at his home near Kirksville, 25 miles south of Lexington.

Peace disturbance charges against two men and two women who picketed the office of the British Consulate in the Federal Commerce Trust Building, Jan. 22, were dismissed yesterday by Police Judge Rosecan. Three other men were fined $5 under an ordinance which forbids the carrying of over-head banners, the fines being stayed on good behavior.

Those fined were: Irwin Goldberg, 18 years old, 1243 North Garrison avenue; Charles Curtis, 21, 1419A Burd avenue; and Martin Payer, 20, 1719 Lafayette avenue. Dismissed were Mrs. Sofia Levine, 22, William Goetz, 21, and William Mathewson, 29, all of 7311 Oakland avenue, and Miss Getta Becker, 18, 2903 Gamble street.

Mathewson, the only defendant to testify, told the Court that the picketing was sponsored by the Young Workers' Communist League in protest against the arrest of an American, Jack Johnstone, in Bombay, India, for radical activities.

Negro Woman Killed by Train.
Mrs. Delilah Harris, 60 years old, a Negro, 1559 North Second street, was killed at 5:49 p. m. yesterday when struck by Chicago & Alton passenger train while crossing tracks near her home. An inquest will be held.

SUES FORMER STATE OFFICIAL

Kentucky Auditor Sues $20,963 From Predecessor.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 29.—On behalf of the State of Kentucky Clall Coleman, State Auditor, filed suit yesterday against William H. Shanks, former Auditor, to recover $20,963 which he alleges Shanks withdrew from the State Treasury but did not disburse to clerks during his four-year term under the administration of former Gov. William J. Fields.

Three days ago a second jury trying Shanks on charges of misappropriation of State funds failed to agree.

If Gus Sonnenberg and the interests supporting him want the American public to believe he is a heavy-weight wrestling champion of the world he had better be kept locked up in a dark room. St. Louis might have accepted him as champion had he not made an appearance at the Coliseum ring last night in a bout with Frank Jorgenson. About 4,000 persons witnessed the "exhibition" which was said to be designed to "show Sonnenberg off to the crowd" out what it actually did was show him up.

Billy Sandow is displaying some improvement. Sonnenberg looks a little bit more like a wrestler than Wayne "Big" Munn, but to say that he appears capable of defeating a first-class wrestler is to say black is white.

Judged by his efforts against Jorgenson, who was obviously a set-up, Sonnenberg must last about five minutes with John Pesek, Jim London, Dick Shikat or Toots Mondt.

Knowledge is limited. The exhibition lasted only three minutes and 55 seconds. Jorgenson fell an easy victim to a wristlock to start with and contrived to keep himself in trouble for the duration of the bout, although Sonnenberg's movements were slow and his display of wrestling skill extremely limited.

He gave a demonstration of his so-called flying tackle, in a modified form. Jorgenson obligingly got his head in Sonnenberg's arm and the champion (he does hold the title) clamped on a face lock.

He then jerked Jorgenson's head violently upward and at the same moment dived at his feet, which remained stationary. Thus, Jorgenson was brought heavily to the mat. The dose was repeated, precisely as before, and this time Jorgenson's shoulders were pinned with a body block.

In spite of the fact that he won in five minutes, Sonnenberg was booed out of the ring.

The crowd was in a hostile attitude. When Sonnenberg entered the ring at the start of the bout, he was greeted with boos and catcalls. The clamor of disapprobation was so loud that announcer "Big" Kenney could not make himself heard as he tried to introduce the man who is credited with a victory over Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

Just how important it was to a wrestler to attempt to obtain a hold on his opponent by diving at his legs was demonstrated forcefully in an earlier bout on the same program when Nick Lutze, an agile fellow, dived at Pat McGill. Instead of getting hold of Pat's legs, Nick found his own head clamped between Pat's thighs in a head scissors. Lutze is far faster foot than Sonnenberg.

The Lutze-McGill bout and the match between Toots Mondt and Dick Daviscourt were the most interesting on the card. Lutze won with a winglock after 42 minutes and 24 seconds of grappling. Mondt beat Daviscourt in 29 minutes and 34 seconds with a double knee lock.

In the opening bout, Roy Steele beat Tom Drank with a body lock, in 21 minutes 10 seconds.

Immediately prior to the final bout, Lutze appeared in the ring and issued a challenge to "Ed Strangler" Lewis or Gus Sonnenberg for a world's title match.

Lewis Uses Headlocks

To Win Over Pletina.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis defeated Pat Pletina in two straight falls, taking the first fall in 15 minutes 15 seconds and the second in 22 seconds and 20 seconds. In seven minutes and 20 seconds the former champion was master of his opponent throughout and punished him badly with his famous headlock—the hold which won both falls. Pletina weighed 235 pounds and Lewis 235 pounds.

DEARDORFF OPPOSES BURNS IN CUE MATCH

Gene Deardorff, defending champion, and R. C. Burns will meet tonight in the eleventh game of the amateur three-cushion billiard tournament for the city championship, at Peterson's.

Burns, last night, lost to E. Rem-lac, 59 to 27, in a match that went 79 innings. Both players had high runs of five.

FORMER JOCKEY WHO IS PLANNING TO RETURN TO TURF

JOCKEY EARL SANDE

EARL SANDE IS IN TRAINING FOR TURF COMEBACK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Earl Sande, once America's greatest jockey, may attempt a comeback this year. Reports from Maryland say that Sande is training strenuously in an effort to cut down the weight that forced him to announce his retirement last summer. According to these reports, Sande will ride in the Coffroth handicap, possibly for Gifford A. Gephart, provided his battle against weight is successful.

Unable to endure the daily torture of making weight, Sande quit the saddle at the close of the fall meeting at Belmont last season. He trained his own small stable and campaigned with more or less success at Aqueduct, Jamaica, Pimlico and Bowie.

However, he had no more than announced his retirement and began his work as trainer than he began to lose weight. He dropped 10 pounds in short order and now believes that he can return to the saddle without much difficulty.

SEAGRAVE GETS BIG SENDOFF IN LONDON

ON DEPARTURE FOR U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Major H. O. Seagrave, British racing driver, had a big sendoff today when he took the boat train en route to Daytona, Fla., where he will attempt to recapture the automobile speed record with his racing car the Golden Arrow.

He will board the liner Majestic at Southampton for New York. A farewell luncheon will be given aboard the vessel which is also carrying the Golden Arrow and his motorboat, Miss England.

Peck Likely to Have Bushels of Trouble With His Indians

By Herman Wecke.

Roger Peckinpugh's Indians of Cleveland will be one of the teams viewed with interest in the 1929 American League pennant race. Peckinpugh will have a pretty fair job of rebuilding on his hands at the New Orleans training camp. In fact, at the present time, there seems to be only one department in which there will be no changes.

That is behind the bat, where Luke Sewell, "Chick" Autry and Glenn Myatt will again hold forth. However, in all other departments, newcomers have a good chance to break in as regulars.

There will be, for instance, the outfield, where two minor leaguers are counted on heavily to plug gaps. They are Dick Porter, a slugger purchased from the Baltimore club, and Earl Averill, who performed in great style in the Pacific Coast League. These two athletes, with Jamieson, are figured on to hold down the outfield positions. There are, however, several others. There is Morgan, who did some pretty fair work in 1928; Tucker from New Orleans and Dorman, a slugger from the Lone Star circuit.

Infield Also a Problem. The outfield will not be the only one likely to give Peck a great deal of trouble. Deciding on a starting infield will be no easy task. One player seems to have his place won—Carl Lind, who proved one of the best young second basemen in the game a year ago. In all other positions the Indian leader will be experimenting.

For instance, he has announced that Joey Sewell, who has twice been a pretty fair shortstop, would be given a chance to show his worth at third. Sewell finished the 1928 campaign at the hot corner, Jackie Tavener, obtained from the Tigers in the Ule deal, is slated to play short. There is, however, a gap at first base.

The Indians for some time have been weak at the initial sack. Now Peck plans to give Johnny Hodapp, a third sacker a year ago, a whirl at the position. Then there is Fonzetta, a reformed second baseman who has played at the initial sack. Peck also will have Van Camp and Bolton, two young first sackers, on hand.

To Rebuild Pitching Staff. The pitching staff also needs rebuilding. Much is expected of Guy Zinn, brought up from Kansas City, who had a previous trial in the big tent. Then there is Wesley Ferrell, a brother to Rich Ferrell, Browne catcher, who will strive for a place on the staff, as well as numerous other players.

The Indian management has spared no money in its rebuilding campaign and the work of the club will be viewed with a great deal of interest.

MEN IN UPPER CLASSES WILL BE PERMITTED
IN TWO SPORTS

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—The University of Pennsylvania today announced a new departure regarding control of undergraduates in sport competition. Hereafter freshmen will be limited to participation in but one sport, except in rare instances, and upper classes will be held to two forms of competition, except in particular cases.

The new policy, which the recently organized coaches' association will put into effect Feb. 11 at the beginning of the second term of the academic year, provides that no freshman shall compete in more than one sport without the approval of the directors of the association.

That no upper classman shall compete in more than two sports without the board's approval. Penn coaches believe the average varsity man who is active athletically throughout the year has difficulty in keeping up with his studies and taxes his strength too much. In future, if he desires to compete in three sports he must convince the coaches that his class work will not suffer thereby, nor will he be undertaking too great a physical burden. The same rules will be applied in limiting freshmen to one sport.

Paul Scott, Penn's football captain last fall, was cited as a type of athlete who probably would not be held to the two-sport program. An outstanding football man, Scott is also a member of the basketball squad and expects to turn out for baseball this spring. Scott is an excellent student and physically is apparently well able to stand up under competition in three sports.

As to freshmen, the coaches say they should devote more time to study than to athletic competition during their first year. There will be no attempt to restrict the type of sport a student may select.

FORSHAW IN GAME AS KAUFFMANS DEFEAT
WINTER GARDEN, 5-2

With Jack Corcoran, St. Louis U. football player, as goalie, the Kauffmans defeated the Winter Gardens, 5 to 2, last night at the Winter Garden, to climb within two points of the losers in the Commercial Ice Hockey League. It was the first defeat of the season for the Winter Gardens.

Corcoran, whose home is in St. Paul, Minn., is a hockey player by experience, and his addition has strengthened the Kauffmans considerably. His defense was functioning well last night, however, and he was called on for only 13 saves. Goals were scored by the Kauffmans in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th periods. The Winter Gardens cleared 24 saves.

Third Step In Sideline Basket
Offense Explained

Herewith is the fourth of a series of instructive articles on basketball, written for the Post-Dispatch by C. O. Benson, assistant coach of Washington University. Others will follow.

By C. O. BENSON,
Of the Washington U. Coaching Staff.

10-THIRD STEP IN SIDE-LINE OFFENSIVE.

THE third step in building up a sideline offense is the concentration of the defensive on one side of the floor, while one of the backfield breaks down the opposite side.

In the above diagram No. 5 passes to No. 3, while No. 2 is breaking toward No. 3. No. 1 breaks down the sideline, where he receives a pass from No. 3. Nos. 2 and 3 then rebound.

A variation may be the passing of the ball to No. 3 by 5, with No. 2 swinging across and No. 3 cutting outside of him with the ball and then cutting toward the basket.

Next—The Fourth Step.

Air Pilot Wins
Dog Derby Title

UNION SPRINGS, Ala., Jan. 30.—Air Pilot, white and lemon colored pointer, owned by Henry D. Whitaker of Cincinnati, and handled by Ed Farrior of Union Springs, won the derby championship of the national bird dog trials here, yesterday. The runner-up was the pointer Haphazard, owned by A. G. Saxe of New York, handled by J. L. Holloway of Elberta, Ala. The stake was for setters and pointers 2 years old and under, and carries with it the title of national derby champion, $1000 in cash and a leg on the national trophy which must be won three times.

TIES FOR SECOND, IN COUNTY RACE

Ferguson and Normandy High Schools were returned the winners in the County League basketball games played yesterday. Ferguson eked out a 13 to 12 victory over Wellston, while Normandy felled Kiteenore, 19 to 14. The defeat for Kiteenore was the fourth of the campaign.

The victory for Ferguson placed the team in a tie for second place in the county title race with University City with a record of four victories against one defeat. Maplewood, with a 2-0 record, is showing the way in the circuit.

A rally by Ferguson, in which a field goal by Hall, gave the deciding points, decided the contest.

BEAUMONT TEAM WINS
Over Maplewood, 17-15

Beaumont High School of the City High School Basketball League gained a 17-to-15 victory over Maplewood of the County circuit at the Maplewood Gymnasium. At the end of the first half, Beaumont was in front, 14 to 4, but the county team rallied and all but overcame the advantage in the closing period.

Maplewood was crippled for the battle by the absence of Al Bruno, star center. Bruno recently was declared ineligible by the school authorities. Weldner at center starred for Beaumont.

Webster Uses 13 Players in Victory Over Hancock

Coach Roberts of the Webster High School basketball team used 13 players in gaining a 29 to 21 victory over John Hancock of the County League in a game yesterday on the Hancock floor. E. Zimmerman, at left forward, was the high point man with 12. Schmidt paced the winners with 10.

UHLE WILL HAVE ARM TREATED BY COAST DOCTOR

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 30.—George Uhle, veteran American League pitcher who recently was sold by the Cleveland Indians to the Detroit Tigers, is to have his right arm treated by Dr. Charles Spencer of Los Angeles, doctor of ailing baseball arms, in an effort to regain his old-time twirling form.

Uhle will come here within the next two weeks. He is being sent by Frank Navin, owner of the Tigers. After an operation Uhle will join his teammates at their spring training camp at Phoenix, Ariz.

For the last few years, Uhle's salary has been troubling him. He had a bad season last year, winning 12 games and losing 17.

Garden Promoters
Plan Six Bouts
In Eliminations

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—With the signing of Paulino Uzcudun for a bout on Feb. 22 with K. O. Christner, Madison Square Garden has revealed plans for six heavyweight elimination battles during the coming year. The windup, under present plans, will come in September with Jack Dempsey in his old role of slayer rather than promoter.

The Garden's plans, as outlined by Col. John S. Hammond, acting general manager of the corporation, are:

Paulino-Christner, Feb. 22; winner to meet Tom Heeney.

Max-Schmeling-Johnny Risko, Feb. 1; winner to meet survivor of Heeney and Paulino or Christner.

Survivor of these matches to clash with the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout in Miami Beach, Feb. 27.

Ultimate survivor to battle Jack Dempsey, probably in one of New York's ball parks in September.

WILLIAM MULDOON
Real Iron Man

Life Story of the 83-year-old Athlete

His Plea for Universal Military Training and Compulsory Physical Education Drew Wide Attention and Praise.

By Ed Van Every,
Of the New York Evening World Sport Staff.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

WILLIAM MULDOON was threescore and ten.

Though he was being referred to as the philosopher on the hilltop, he was still regarded as a superb athlete despite his age. He still seemed as tireless as ever in the gym, and there was probably no horse he could not ride into exhaustion. Even five years later, when he celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, his measurements were found to be almost identical with those that had been taped 25 years previous when he was defending his title as wrestling champion and when, in the words of Elbert Hubbard, "He gave you a glimpse of Greece in the time of Pericles."

His appearance was still striking. He was clean-shaven now and his snow-white hair made more pronounced the roundness of his complexion. He wore eye glasses now for reading and they were at times a heavy black silk cord. He looked the part of the philosopher, but there was youth and power in stride.

Urged Military Training.

OR some years now his word had carried weight upon subjects other than physical training. He was called upon to give his opinion at many important national discussions and to serve on many important committees. In spite of his disregard for money he was a man of considerable wealth. His advocacy of universal military training as a member of the National Security League commanded much attention and parts of his speech were freely quoted.

"I know of no authority to be defied successfully except the Federal authority of the United States Government. It is a waste of time to talk of military training in the schools, for there is no authority back of any school system that is rigid enough to meet the situation. The State militia is a force, at least in this direction. Every youth should have his taste of a turn at duty and training in an institution where neither his wealth or his social position, nor anything else, can save him from the necessity of learning how to do the thing he is told. I know there are those who denounce unquestioning obedience as a relic of barbarism, and they find in it the cause of all the evils of militarism. But we are going too far the other way. The idea for individualism is in most cases the polite name for selfishness and even disloyalty and other ills.

"Compulsory military service or nationalized systematic exercise, also compulsory, is the only cure. Athletics will not do it. There are too many fans and rooters and not enough participants. Furthermore, there is no democracy in athletics as we run them in this country. Can you imagine anything less democratic than making heroes out of 11 members of a football team in school or college and then using the other hundreds of thousands as worshippers? The most wholesome thing that is being done in this country now is the development of the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout work, and this goes only a little way toward the goal of universal participation in the national salvation. I do not pretend to know the plan of what the universal service system should be, but I should say that boys of 17, during the school vacation should be turned over to the Government for their first lesson in discipline and physical training."

Urged for Boxing Board.

JUST a few months before the death of Elsworth M. Statler, when that noted hotel man was discussing with Muldoon what a man of great wealth might do with his superfluous millions, Muldoon outlined for him a scheme of training institutions throughout the country, but he had to admit that he himself had not the years left to devote to the heading of such a work. But it would seem that Muldoon might spare the time, before it is too late, to outline his ideas so that they would not be lost should the money ever be forthcoming for the carrying out of his plans.

When Physical Culture Week was inaugurated, needless to say, William Muldoon was one of the important speakers. In fact, he was chairman of the committee, and from Gen. Pershing came this message:

"I feel it to be the duty of all patriotic citizens to assist in every way the movement you have started."

This was but a small part of his civic activities aside from the strenuous duty at his health institute. He was one of the endorsers of the candidacy of Gen. Leonard Wood for President in 1920 and smilingly observes that he does not feel that his indorsement did the General serious harm. Still he was not permitted to sever his identity from the sport of boxing. When James K. Sullivan resigned from the Boxing Commission of New York Muldoon's name was suggested for the vacancy. But he did not encourage the idea. There was, however, some revival of interest in the game on his part when Tex Rickard appeared on the scene again. This time to make his debut in New York in 1916 for the promotion of the Jess Willard-Frank Moran contest.

Admiration for Rickard.

AS USUAL, Muldoon was persuaded to look over the contestants in training, but he evinced more interest in the promoter than in either of the principals. Muldoon had sources of information that gave him an insight into the obstacles in the way of political greed and individual rapacity. Rickard was forced to contend with, and the admiration that Rickard-nerve had inspired out in Reno on the occasion of their first meeting six years previous was greatly increased.

He did certain things in the promotion of the Willard-Moran contest," says Muldoon. "That made me appreciate that his word was something worth placing reliance on. They vowed that 'western guy wasn't going to butt in here,' but he did and showed them a thing or two."

DEMPSEY HAS NO MONEY INVOLVED IN HEAVY BOUT

Two Boxers Are Suspended by Wisconsin Body

By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Jan. 30.—HIL ZWICK, Cleveland boxer, and Sammy Shack of New York who defeated him in bout here Monday night, have been suspended by the Wisconsin State Athletic Commission—Zwick indefinitely and Shack for 60 days.

The suspension of Zwick will be effective, the Commission announced, "until he appears before the Commission for an explanation relative to the use of the kidney and rabbit punches during his contest with Shack." The ban upon Shack was due to his being overweight and to his "poor showing against Zwick."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—Railroads of the Mid West today joined with carriers of the South and Southeast to make it easy for fight fans to attend the Sharkey-Stribling bout here the night of Feb. 27.

W. F. Carey, vice president of Madison Square Garden, who is co-operating with Jack Dempsey in the fight arrangements here, was notified by R. J. Thompson, general passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast Lines, that the round trip rate of a one-way fare plus 25 cents would apply also throughout the Mid West.

"Pleased to advise Pennsylvania Railroad from Chicago, the Illinois Central from Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway from all points on their lines have agreed to participate in the special rates to Miami Beach for the fight," the message stated.

Dempsey was chuckling today over the synopsis of a story published in a Chicago newspaper and written by a New York correspondent stating that the ex-champion was working so hard here to protect money he had invested with Rickard.

"I had no money invested here with Rickard," Dempsey explained. "My principal interest in returning here after Tex's death was to do everything I could to protect his investments for Mrs. Rickard and Rickard's baby."

Put Up $12,500.

"However," Dempsey continued, "I have a $12,500 interest in the fight between Sharkey and Stribling. When Mr. Carey and I went to Boston to sign Sharkey, Jack held out for a $100,000 guarantee. The Garden officials had set the limit at $75,000, but I had so much confidence in the success of the venture I offered to split the difference with Mr. Carey. He agreed and we each added an equal $12,500 to complete the guarantee for Sharkey's demands. Since that time the Garden has relieved me of that investment.

"It is ridiculous to say that any money I have is imperiled. That is impossible. I have an established trust fund that will provide me with all the money I will ever need."

Taciturn weather was responsible for another postponement of Dempsey's plans to work out yesterday. He suffered no discomfort from the slight amount of road work he did Monday, he said, and was eager to get started on the schedule of training that will determine for him whether he will re-enter the ring.

Syndicate Is After
Dempsey for Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Acting as spokesman for a syndicate of wealthy men whom he promised to list for publication within 10 days, Edwin Cole, financial advisor to William H. Bartlett of Atlantic City, announced yesterday he would make Jack Dempsey "a large cash offer" for a comeback fight this summer.

Cole said the syndicate would take over the erection of the Metropolitan Coliseum, a venue originally planned by Hubert J. Fugazy boxing promoter, at a cost of $4,000,000 to $10,000,000. Fugazy will act as promoter and general manager, he said.

The syndicate hopes to hold a fight between Dempsey and either Paulino Uzcudun or George Goffey in a ball park here, Cole said. He returned from a trip to Miami Beach, Fla., where he said Dempsey was interested in his proposition but was not open to any offer until after the Sharkey-Stribling match there Feb. 27.

SHOT AT IN ATTEMPT TO FIRE $22,000 HOUSE

Incendiary Interrupted by Policeman After Starting Blaze in University City.

An attempt to set fire to a $22,000 residence under construction at West Point Court and Pershing avenue, University City, was interrupted at 9:59 o'clock last night by a policeman, who fired five shots at a man who ran from the house after he had poured gasoline on laths and ignited it.

Patrolman Herman Sturgin of the University City force and a night watchman were attracted by the reflection of fire in the house and saw a man run toward a parked automobile. Sturgin fired at the man. While the watchman ran to a fire alarm box Sturgin extinguished the blazing laths with wet plaster. The damage was slight.

GIRL MISSING 34 HOURS

SAYS SHE WAS KIDNAPED
Miss Mary Russell, 19, asserts she was held prisoner in a shack in County.

Miss Mary Russell, 19 years old, 4942A St. Louis avenue, returning home last night after an absence of 34 hours, said she had been kidnapped and held prisoner in a shack in the county.

Miss Russell is employed at the Lambert Pharmacal Co., 2101 Locust street. She said she alighted from a street car at Jefferson avenue and Locust street Monday morning and was walking to work when an automobile occupied by three women and two men drove up to the curb and one of the women pulled her in. She was blindfolded and driven to the shack, she added.

Later in the day a man called Phil by the others entered the shack and declared: "You got the wrong girl—this is my mamma," and pointed to a girl who accompanied him. Miss Russell told police. Phil then assured Miss Russell, according to her account, that she would not be harmed. Last night she was again blindfolded, driven into the city and put out at Taylor and St. Louis avenues, from where she went home.

Her parents had received a telegram Monday night which read: "Will be home in the morning, don't worry." Investigation showed the message had been telephoned to the telegraph office from a drug store at Newstead and St. Louis avenues.

MADRID, Jan. 29.—Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain, in a pastoral letter today forbade Catholics to affiliate in any way with secret organizations, condemning Rotary clubs, women's clubs, benevolent societies and any other organization of similar nature.

The letter said: "Under a commercial, recreative, educational, philanthropic, international or neutral guise, but always laic (unreligious), while they preach morality without religion, these societies conceal a moral denial of the true religion which they try to displace with a moral system or with a religion, neither of which was preached by Jesus Christ."

THREE INDICTED FOR BRIBERY

Minneapolis Alderman and Two Business Men Involved.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 29.—Bribery indictments involving a city Alderman and two business men, one from Chicago, were returned late yesterday by the Hennepin County grand jury.

Those named are John P. Eckberg, senior Alderman from the Twelfth Ward, and E. P. Browning of Minneapolis, associated with the W. S. Nott Co., and Don Green of Chicago, associated with the American La France and Foamite Corporation. Irregularities in connection with the purchase and sale of fire department equipment are charged.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for Calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

MESSAGE IN BOTTLE POSSIBLE CLEW TO FATE OF PLANE DOWN

Signed "Grayson," Says Gasoline Leaked and "We Are Drifting Off Grand Banks."

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 30.—A possible clew to the fate of Mrs. Francis Wilson Grayson and her three male companions who took off from Long Island, N. Y., Dec. 23, 1927, in the airplane Dawn for Europe and were never seen again, is given by a message found in a bottle washed ashore here.

The bottle was found by Charlton Hatfield in Salem harbor. The message, written in pencil on a piece of yellow note paper, said: "1928, we are freezing. Gas leaked and we are drifting off Grand Banks, Grayson."

Several previous messages purporting to have been written by members of the crew of the Dawn have been picked up along the New England coast.

BRIDGE

TWELFTH GAME

TELLAR lights of the Bridge world made up the quartet for the twelfth of this season's Radio Bridge Games, broadcast yesterday from Station KSD. Paired against Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead were Grata M. Scott, president of the Cavendish Club of New York, and John H. Smith of Ridgewood, N. Y., a noted member of the Knickerbocker Whist Club of New York.

Mr. Scott, as South, the Dealer, opened the bidding with one Club on this hand: Spades, J, 10, 9; Hearts, 10, 8, 7; Diamonds, A, 8, 6; Clubs, A, K, 10, 9. His cards were: Spades, A, K; Hearts, 6, 4, 3; Diamonds, 10, 9, 8; Clubs, 9, 7, 6, 5. Mr. Smith, North, made an improving bid of one Heart on this holding: Spades, Q, 9, 7, 6, 3; Hearts, A, Q, 1, 9, 8; Diamonds, 7, 4; Clubs, Q.

Mr. Work, East, held: Spades, 8, 5; Hearts, K, 3; Diamonds, K, Q, J, 2; Clubs, J, 8, 3. Mr. Whitehead, West, held: Spades, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; Hearts, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; Diamonds, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; Clubs, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2.

Mr. Scott, South, however, bid two Hearts in support of his partner's call. Mr. Whitehead, West, went to three Diamonds, reasoning that he held two sure tricks, Diamonds and the probability of third by ruffing the third round of Spades.

Mr. Smith, North, passed. In spite of his two-suit hand and his partner's assist of Hearts, he felt his high-card values did not warrant a rebid unless his partner could show greater strength. Mr. Work, East, also passed. Mr. Scott, South, then gave his second assist by bidding three Hearts. All passed, and Mr. Smith, North, became the Declarer, with his contract three Hearts.

Mr. Work, East, opened the play by leading the King of Diamonds, and Mr. Scott's hand went down as Dummy. Mr. Smith, Declarer, before playing from Dummy, studied his cards. He saw he had to lose two Spade tricks, and also a Heart if the finesse against the King failed. If the finesse failed, he would also have to lose a Diamond trick unless he discarded his losing Diamond on Dummy's King of Clubs before attempting the trump finesse.

Having decided to make the Diamond discard and then try the trump finesse before playing further, Declarer played Dummy's Ace of Diamonds to the first trick. Mr. Whitehead, West, played the 6 of Diamonds; Declarer the 4.

Dummy then led the Ace of Clubs. Mr. Whitehead played the 3; Declarer the Queen; Mr. Work the 5; Dummy continued with the King of Clubs. Mr. Whitehead played the 8; Declarer discarded the 7 of Diamonds; Mr. Work played the 8 of Clubs.

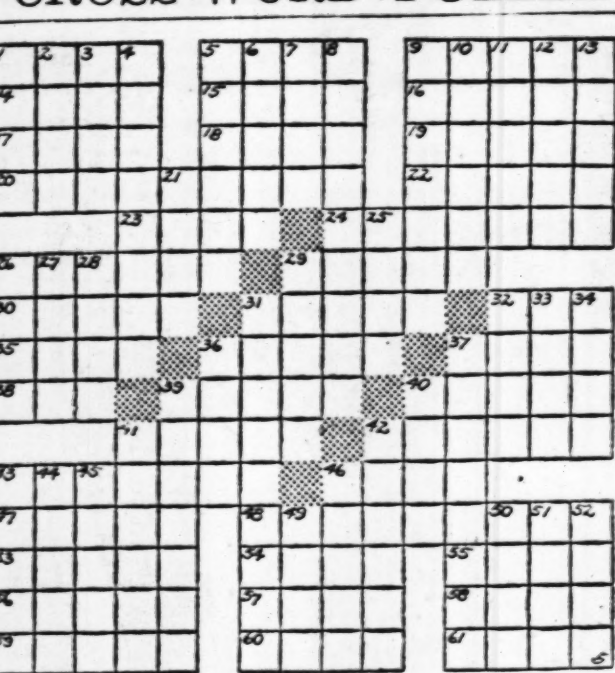

Declarer was then left with nothing but Spades and Hearts in his hand. If he could finesse successfully against the King of Hearts, and find the adverse trumps split normally, 3-2, game would be easy, for then trumps could be drawn and Declarer still would have enough left to withstand two ruffs, which he would have to take in the process of establishing his Spades. But should the trump finesse fail, the situation would require careful handling. Attempting the finesse, Mr. Smith led Dummy's 8 of Hearts. Mr. Whitehead played the 3; Declarer the 5; and Mr. Work, East, won with the King.

Mr. Work led the Queen of Diamonds, to weaken Declarer's trump holding. Dummy played the 6; Mr. Whitehead the 9; and Declarer trumped with the Jack of Hearts, retaining his 9 as an entry to Dummy.

Declarer then proceeded to start the establishment of his Spades before taking out trumps. It was important for him to retain his trumps in order to withstand two more forces to which he would inevitably be subjected. The risk of having the bid Spades trumped had to be taken. Declarer's first move was to lead the 3 of Spades. Mr. Work followed with the 3; Dummy with the 10; Mr. Whitehead led the 10 of Diamonds; Declarer was forced to trump with the Queen of Hearts.

Mr. Work played the 2 of Diamonds; Dummy the 8. Declarer continued with his Spades, leading the 6; Mr. Work played the 5; Dummy the Jack; Mr. Whitehead again won with the Ace.

Baby Picks Name
Out of Dad's Hat

GENE TUNNEY ODATO, only several days old, has named himself. When Mr. and Mrs. Patsy Odato of Brentwood, a Pittsburgh suburb, sought a name for their offspring, they ran into so many suggestions that they decided to put it up to the baby himself.

Selecting a score of names of present-day celebrities, they wrote the names on paper slips and put them in a hat. The baby's chubby fist went into the skycraper and reappeared with his name—Gene Tunney.

Spade lead might have resulted fatally, and would have done so had West, instead of East, held three Spades, so that he could have given his partner a ruff after taking the second Spade trick with his King. However, Declarer recognized that he could not establish his Spades without taking the risk, so he did the one thing that made game possible.

In discussing the bidding of this hand at Contract, Mr. Work gave it as his opinion that South should open the bidding with one Club, just as in Auction. He also stated that many able Contract players would not approve that bid because they objected to naming a four-card suit. Mr. Work conceded that there is more danger in four-card suit-bidding in Contract than in Auction, but also there is even greater necessity for the accurate portrayal of player's holding, for the benefit of his partner.

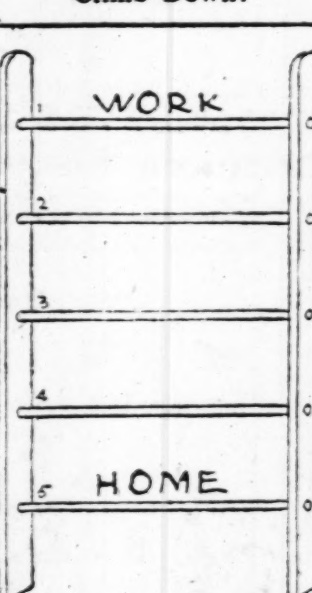

Mr. Work's own belief is that in the long run—even in Contract—it pays to bid four-card Ace-King suits, Major, or Minor, when the hand has a side Ace.

Therefore, the Contract bidding of this radio hand, according to Mr. Work, would be—South, one Club; West, pass; North, one Heart; East's first declaration would be more doubtful in Contract than in Auction, because the loss, if the two Diamond bids were defeated, would be greater. It would be a contract to take eight tricks with a hand that could expect to produce only five, facing a partner who has passed one Club. It must be remembered, however, that each opponent has bid only one, so there is a probability that West has some high cards. Therefore, as a lead-bidder, East's Diamond declaration probably is justified at Contract.

After East's two Diamonds, South should bid two Hearts, and West three Diamonds. He cannot tell that East's bid has been made so light a holding. He himself has passed with two quick tricks, and he has normal support in Diamonds. North, with a really strong Heart suit and a peculiarly divided hand, would be warranted in bidding three Hearts after South's raise. East would then pass, and there would be some doubt whether South, who already has bid twice, would be justified in bidding for game. However, most players probably would risk the bid.

HUMAN HABITS—ASPIRIN

FADS in the use of drugs come and go. Long years since when we were very young, when the earth was a much more beautiful place than it is now, when things were ordered in a better way, strychnine was the fashionable remedy. It toned the heart and nervous system, braced you up, cured colds, relieved headaches and prevented pneumonia. A decade or so before that calomel was the drug of choice. It toned the heart, the intestine and the nervous system, braced you up, cured colds, relieved headaches and prevented pneumonia. Along about 1870 quinine was a favorite pharmaceutical preparation. It toned the heart and nervous system, braced you up, cured colds, relieved headaches and prevented pneumonia.

Today unquestionably the most popular therapeutic agent we have is aspirin. We are acquainted with it. People who depend on aspirin for many ills in their affairs. From various sources we learn that while its action on the heart may be a little dubious it unquestionably tones the nervous system, overcomes insomnia, braces you up, cures colds, relieves headaches and prevents pneumonia. Other admirers claim that it cures halitosis, sweetens the breath, tightens the teeth, brings on perspiration, dries the feet, dissolves fever blisters, and takes away the taste for liquor.

It is rather unfair to aspirin to make it try to do so many things because it really is a good drug in its place. Its chemical name is acetylsalicylic acid and it is thus a derivative of salicylic acid and of the salicylates or wintergreen oil, the most useful remedy we have in rheumatic fever. It was introduced into medicine as an improvement over salicylic acid or the wintergreens. Its advantage being that it does not hurt the stomach as much as they do. So its first action is to relieve pain, which it does, especially around joints and pain of the neuritic kind. It also reduces fever, probably largely because it produces such a profuse perspiration. Thus its popularity in colds is accounted for, because it eases the aching of the muscles and makes the patient more comfortable. That it has an antiseptic action on the infection of colds must be doubted. As must also its reputation for preventing colds. Its popularity as a headache remedy is quite legitimate.

It is often said that it has a depressing effect on the heart. This, however, occurs only in certain people who are sensitive to it. They are sensitive to aspirin just as some people are sensitive to hay fever or poison ivy. When such a sensitive individual gets even so small a dose as one grain of aspirin it brings on asthma, and a blue color to the skin, with rapid pulse, and these and other general signs look like a failing heart.

The general condition of such individuals is truly alarming. They narrowly escape death and a death has even been recorded. But of condition affects only one out of about 1000 persons. The afflicted one usually learns that aspirin affects him in this way and should warn all doctors prescribing for him that he should not be given a prescription with aspirin in it. For the vast majority of people aspirin has no deleterious effect on the heart whatever.

THE LAW OF NEGLIGENCE

By Dorothy Frooks

IT was the day of the trial when the many phases of the case were brought out to the surface. It appeared that the defendant had a large automobile and was about to pass along the street when he noticed a small velocipede manipulated by a little fellow about 8 years old. When the child saw the automobile, he stopped. The adult driver of the large car stopped also. They both seemed to stop and beckoned to each other to go on. Because there was a pause each believed the other would stand still. Both started at the same time and there was a crash.

In court efforts were made to place negligence on the adult party. The family for the infant tried to prove that the adult should have used care that his stepping on the gas and proceeding when he saw the child and beckoned him to go ahead was careless; that it was his place to wait until the child passed him safely. The adult contended that he had the right of way.

There are degrees of negligence. Many times it can be proven that contributory negligence on the part of one party would defeat a claim on the part of the other. Danger is understandable by mature minds. Infants are presumed not to recognize danger.

In negligence matters, there are many situations to be taken into consideration. One who is negligent has defaulted in doing something which he should have done. A recent case brought facts to the effect that a manhole was left open after coal had been dropped through it. A woman passed and stumbled and hurt herself. She sued the owner for damages.

Children do not realize the value of life and sometimes, court disaster. There is no unvarying rule that can be put down as to the liability of a negligent party. It is a matter of proof and a question of fact.

SPOOKY TRIES TO BLUFF

When you are cornered, try a bluff. Sometimes you'll find it is enough. —Spooky the Screech Owl.

SPOOKY the Screech Owl is a little fellow. He is smaller, much smaller, than he looks to be. You see, his feathers are very fluffy and he keeps them fluffed out. If you could see him without all his feathers at all you would be surprised to see how little he is.

Spooky is not a coward. He may be afraid, very much afraid, but if he is he doesn't show it. Instead, he tries to make you afraid. He bluffs. Yes, sir, that is just what he does. He pretends to be very fierce and savage. He glares as only an owl can glare. He snaps his bill and sometimes hisses, and he strikes with his big, sharp claws.

Spooky was a prisoner in Farmer Brown's grain bin in the barn. He was a badly frightened prisoner. He had flown down in there to catch a young rat and the lid had fallen. For a while he forgot the young rat. But presently, when nothing happened, Spooky remembered the young rat. "I may as well have a good meal anyway," thought he, and proceeded to eat the young rat. He had swallowed all but the tail. The tail was hanging from one corner of his mouth, when he heard a sound outside the grain bin. Spooky's heart gave a bound. He knew that sound. Footsteps were approaching.

Now, Spooky had planned that the instant that lid should be lifted he would fly out. But it is one thing to plan and another thing to do what you have planned. The lid of that grain bin was thrown open suddenly and it let light in with a rush. It was all so unexpected that all Spooky could do was to blink. You see, he couldn't adjust his eyes to the light so quickly. So, of course, he didn't fly out. Farmer Brown's Boy saw Spooky at once. Such a funny look as there was on the face of Farmer Brown's Boy.

"Well, well, well," exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "Just see who's here! What are you doing in the grain bin, and how under the sun did you get caught?" Just then Farmer Brown's Boy saw the tail of a rat hanging from Spooky's mouth. He chuckled when he saw this. "So that's it!" said he. "You saw that young rat in here and you couldn't resist the temptation. It must be that I left the lid open. I wonder who closed it. Well, seeing you're here, I think I'll take you out."

Farmer Brown's Boy reached in for Spooky. Spooky started to fly, but couldn't get past the arm of Farmer Brown's Boy. "He dropped back. Then he tried to bluff. He fluffed out all his feathers just as Black Pussy raises the hair on her tail when she is frightened or angry. He put his head down and half raised his wings. He glared with those yellow eyes of his, as only an Owl can glare. He looked surprisingly fierce for one so small. He snapped his bill warningly. He hissed. Altogether, he made a very fierce appearance.

Of course, he wondered what Farmer Brown's Boy was going to do with him.

Farmer Brown's Boy just laughed. "Stop your bluffing, Spooky," said he. "You know very well you can't scare an old friend like me. I'm just going to take you right out of here."

Farmer Brown's Boy moved his hand quickly. Spooky struck at it, but he didn't touch it. And then Farmer Brown's Boy had him, pinning his wings to his sides and holding him so that he could not use those big, sharp claws. Spooky was helpless. He was very, very angry. But after Farmer Brown's Boy stroked him a bit, he felt better. Of course, he wondered what Farmer Brown's Boy was going to do with him. I suspect you are wondering too. Well, for a few minutes, Farmer Brown's Boy wondered himself.

Coffee Nut Ice Cream

Put 3 cups of milk and one-third cup ground coffee in a saucepan, bring to a boil and then let stand 5 minutes. Drain and to the liquid add 1 tablespoon cornstarch blended with a little cold milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add slowly 1 beaten egg yolk. 4 cup sugar, a pinch of salt. Cook 3 minutes, then remove and cool. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 pint cream whipped stiff and 1 cup chopped nuts. Freeze until firm. Pack in ice and salt for 8 hours before serving. A very delicate and unusual form of ice cream.

ETIQUETTE

By Katherine de Peysson.

FORGIVE HER

I WOULD appreciate it very much if you would settle this for us.

My daughter was married recently, while on a vacation. She came back last evening and told her sister that she was married and then, in my presence, told her mother. She said, "Mother, is your son-in-law?" She was facing her mother and she did not say a word to me. I did not congratulate them because I believe that she acted very rudely toward me. I believe she should have said "Folks, we were married," or something to that effect. I do not object to her being married because I know the young man is a good provider and I have known him for many years. My daughter thinks that I should have said something to him, and we have decided to let you give us your opinion.

FATHER. I can't think that your daughter meant to be rude—I am sure that, in this excited minute, she was impulsive and did not at all mean to hurt you. Naturally when she was telling her thrilling news, the words tumbled from her mouth and naturally she did not pause to think as carefully as you are doing in retrospect. Don't, dear friend, let against her such a slight thing, especially now when you should be adding your efforts to make her happy. In these days of her unhappiness. Especially since she is evidently a fine girl and married a fine, manly man. It would be cruel of you to harbor any petty thoughts, especially when she is so close and petty thoughts were in the mind of your daughter. I am sure.

I agree, most heartily, with your daughter—that you should have offered your best wishes and congratulations. If you haven't done so, try to make it up by doing it now and by showing her how sorry you are that you made such a mountain out of a molehill.

SKIRTS ARE GOING TO BE MUCH LONGER, PATOU SAYS

Not Too Long, and There Still Will Be Variation in the Hem Line, but There Will Be More Panels and Draperies and They Will Be of Greater Length.

By JEAN PATOU.

PARIS. THERE are now two definite fashions—the practical and the feminine—or individual. The first includes all sports, tailored and morning clothes. The latter is for the garden party and afternoon reception dress and includes the dinner and evening gown.

As I have said before, sports clothes and the usual morning dress have reached a point of practical perfection where it is only necessary to vary them in detail, fabric and color. The skirt is just what it should be, therefore it would be foolish to change it. It is slim, but gives sufficient fullness to allow women to step into their cars, take a good walk, and move generally without any encumbrance or hindrance. The skirts are not exaggeratedly short, for the Parisienne does not consider knees suitable for general display.

Light pastel shades of delicate ability are being prepared for the spring and Palm Beach seasons. White cloth coats trimmed with new leopard are worn with white or georgette frocks. Tulle, lime green, mastic beige and pale grayish blue are all attractive for this purpose, and the vivid light red that is so becoming to the majority of women makes an effective change.

The individual or feminine mode who one that gives the dress designer an opportunity to show his strength or weakness.

WAS one of the first to set my face against what I call severity in dress. You have only to study present fashions signed by any great dressmaking house to see how my views have been shared by my confreres. The dress that is copied or clever lady's maid could produce simply does not exist any more. Women have returned to the mode of the professional dressmaker. I think we shall see a number of society ladies who had turned dressmaker because they had good taste, shutting up shop because they lack the technique that is essential to the production of a chic gown in keeping with present fashions.

Dressmaking is like the arts. To get perfection, you must have inspiration combined with the technique of the professional. A picture painted by an artist who has ideals but lacks mastery of the primary principles of drawing is not a real work of art. A musician who has soul but no technique will be obliged to display his talent in empty stunts. It is already better to possess technique and little or no inspiration, especially in dressmaking. The uninspired professional will at least give you garments that are well made, hang the way they should hang, and fit properly. This, however, is not sufficient to give you chic. To be really smart, you must have not only perfect technique, but the inspiration of a creative designer. Again, if you have a dress that shows ideas, but is not properly made, the result is lamentable in its unfortunate unfitness. That is why I foresee the disappearance in the near future of all but professional dressmakers. To achieve momentary success the inspiration of the clever amateur may suffice; but to carry on successfully for a number of seasons you must be of the "metier."

But you want to hear more details of what I call the feminine and individual side of fashion. In the first place, skirts are going to be much longer. Do not be afraid that this means encumbering length. We shall still have variation in the hem line, but the long panels and draperies will be longer than they have yet been and perhaps they will be more frequent.

Then the elaboration of cut and style which is so characteristic of this season's afternoon and evening fashions will be even more accentuated. It was something that had to come. Women do not go to great couturiers and pay the prices they demand in order to have dresses that can be copied in series by all the cheaper houses. They come because they want dresses of character and distinction, and that is what present styles give them. I do not pretend for a moment that it is as easy to choose successfully from a collection of elaborate models as from simple and simpler ones. But that is where a woman's natural taste and intelligence lie given scope. She has real merit in being well dressed when she has sufficient judgment to select what really suits her perfectly from a collection that includes many gowns not intended for her type. The Parisienne has always had this gift cultivated to an extraordinary degree. That is why she has a world-wide reputation for being the model of good dressing.

THERE was a time, before the war, when any smart woman would have been furious to see a duplicate of her own gown at a sale or a dinner. Now, one might almost say the contrary is true. In each leading house there are one or two models which most chic clients seem to choose. I cannot say that I see any cause for complaint when Evening cloak in pale blue velvet, trimmed with voluminous collar and cuffs of pale gray fur and cut with curve over hips. Fullness at back dips over the drapery of skirt.

An evening gown of gold lame shows a suggestion of the modernized 1880 silhouette. The V neckline is cleverly balanced by the drapery at the waist.

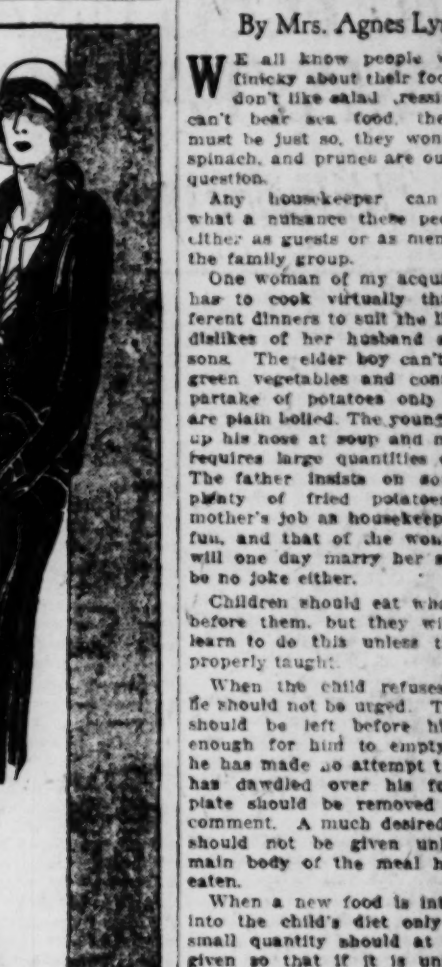

One of the magpie dresses in the midseason collection has a corsage of white satin with a curved stitched band in front ending in a single loop. It is worn with a long black satin coat lined with white.

A characteristic Patou sports frock is made of beige jersey de laine with a beige leather belt above the hem stripes of red and blue. The skirt has wide knife pleats. Note the strapping motif at the neck.

Foulard frocks promise to be more popular than ever. This model is made of brown foulard printed with small flowers and is finished with a touch of lingerie on corsage.

Note the intricate workmanship of this afternoon frock of navy blue moire marocain. It is lightened with a little vest of white georgette with hand stitchery.

this happens to my models, but I really admire the woman who has the discrimination to choose a dress that she has seen nobody wearing because it is the model best suited to her own personality and physique. She is much cleverer and probably infinitely more chic than the woman who chooses a gown because she has seen it worn by the Princess X and the Duchesse de Z.

So now that the mode has individuality, in spite of mistakes that must inevitably be made, I think that women, on the whole, are much better dressed than when they all wore the same straight slip and the same little cloche hat and sank their personality in the uniform of a standardized disguise. Men certainly prefer fashions which enable them to recognize their women friends. Life was terribly complicated when one was constantly beset by the fear of offending Mme. A, because one failed to recognize her in a regiment of women looking exactly like her, or of still more offending Mme. B by saluting her in mistake for somebody else, when one had not the privilege of being of her acquaintance.

But apart from the increased need for care and attention in choice, you can easily see this new elaborate mode needs to be cut and made by the best workers that money can obtain. A simple gown is better when it is perfectly cut and made, but an elaborate gown is a disaster when it is indifferently cut and made by second-rate workmen. There is an eternal justice in work and the professional, after suffering a temporary eclipse, has now fully come into his own again.

THERE are many magpie effects in my midseason collection that shows models giving a hint of what will be worn in the spring. This dress forms part of an ensemble which is completed by a black satin coat carrying out the same idea in a white satin lining just the length of the blouse.

In my midseason collection you will notice that I use satin rather than for afternoon ensembles than for evening gowns. There is one black satin model for evening, but the rest are in georgette, in chiffon plain or printed, in lame or in the new crepes with a small scattered design in gold or silver.

Flounces are still used on some of my most successful models, but they are set on in an intricate manner that gives much character to the dresses. One in black chiffon scattered with yellow roses has the flounces running across each other diagonally at the back and dipping down to the ankles so that the dress has a distinct 1880 silhouette, but one that is so modified and up to date that it has a particularly modern allure.

Though most fashions are made for the slender women who are less slim than they could wish will find flounces most becoming to them. Fullness that hangs gives a much more slender effect than tightness.

FISHY TRICKS.

WISH, gleam, puff, flop. Now you see it, now you don't! No, it's not a magician. It's a deep sea fish that can throw out a smoke screen to confuse its enemies.

The squid itself is silvery bright, with golden eyes—and he can be seen with fatal clearness in the sunny waters near the top of the sea. But as soon as an enemy hoves into view—puff! A black cloud of smoke baffles the hostile one, where once a luscious silvery fish darted—and before the enemy can blink his eyes, off the bright fellow is behind his inky smoke cloud.

But at the bottom of the sea, where everything is sunk in murky darkness, a soot-colored smoke screen would be lost in the blackness, and so the scarlet prawn, a crabby looking deep sea fish, dazzles the eyes of his enemies which are accustomed to looking only in darkness, with a bright shower of glowing dust, that shines like stars and quite blinds even the fiercest pursuers.

The dusky floor of the ocean is lighted only by the dim greenish-yellow glow of scales and fins and tiny lanterns held aloft by some of the fishes.

Generally deep sea fishes have lights for the purpose of attracting smaller creatures to them, for each lives on his fellow creatures.

The fishes at the bottom of the sea have queerer bodies and stranger colors and wicker tricks than one can dream. Some have eyes at the top of their heads, and others have mirrors in their bellies. Some are blind, and have to stretch their arms after food as they go darting around in the depths of the sea. Some look like flowers—pale and beautiful and soft—but others, like the little sea devil, have flaming teeth and horns and smoke stacks and tails.

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally, preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true mark of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by Good druggists everywhere.

It is very annoying when cooking rice, noodles, beans, etc., to have them foam and boil over the stove. This can be avoided by dropping a small piece of butter in the boiling water.

HAVE CHILDREN EAT NEW FOOD

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

WE all know people who are finicky about their food. They don't like salad dressing, they can't bear sea food, their eggs must be just so, they won't touch spinach, and prunes are out of the question.

Any housekeeper can testify what a nuisance these people are either as guests or as members of the family group.

One woman of my acquaintance has to cook virtually three different dinners to suit the likes and dislikes of her husband and two sons. The elder boy can't endure green vegetables and consents to partake of potatoes only if they are plain boiled. The younger turns up his nose at soup and meat but requires large quantities of cake. The father insists on soup, and plenty of fried potatoes. The mother's job as housekeeper is no fun, and that of the woman who will one day marry her sons will be no joke either.

Children should eat what is set before them, but they will never learn to do this unless they are properly taught.

When the child refuses to eat he should not be urged. The plate should be left before him long enough for him to empty it. If he has made no attempt to eat or has dawdled over his food, the plate should be removed without comment. A much desired dessert should not be given unless the main body of the meal has been eaten.

When a new food is introduced into the child's diet only a very small quantity should at first be given so that if it is unpleasant to him he will neither have to go through a prolonged ordeal nor have occasion to work up an intense dislike. If the amount he is expected to eat is increased slowly he is more likely to develop a taste for the new flavor.

If he absolutely refuses the new food he should be given nothing else until he has eaten a small portion of it. It may be necessary to carry out this harsh measure through a few meal hours until hunger forces him to take it.

Elegance in Prints

WHITE backgrounds or at the least so much white used in the design that many prints appear to have white backgrounds as a setting for bright color and black is one of the newest turns of spring prints.

A very lovely afternoon frock is fashioned of an acorn design in white on a black ground, but the pattern so dominates that the black is merely an accent further emphasized by splashes of red.

Three large wide flounces compose the entire dress, wrapped about the figure and ending at one side in a long shaped panel. The neckline is round, very plain, and the sleeves are close fitting with no elaboration whatsoever. Thus is the design of the frock, a foil to the charm of the print and its coloring.
